FILLING STATION BANDIT SHOT

OHIO VALLEY OIL CO. WORKER FIRES AS MAN FLEES WITH RECEIPTS

Robbers Stage Hold-up in Broadway and St. Clair Avenue Place as His Confederate Remains at Wheel of Automobile, With Engine Running, at 10:30 p. m. Tuesday.

FUGITIVE DROPS SACK CONTAINING $120 WHEN BULLET STRIKES ARM

Obtains $20 From George T. Farral, in Charge of Office. When Revolver, Held in Pocket of Overcoat, is Pressed Against His Side as he Checks up Money.

Two bandits, one of whom is believed to have been wounded, held up the Ohio Valley Oil company's gasoline station, owned by Frank G. Jones, at the intersection of Broadway and St. Clair avenue, obtained $20 and escaped in an automobile at 10:30 o'clock last night.

One of the robbers dropped a sack containing between $100 and $120 as he ran toward a waiting motor car, either a Nash or a Chandler, when George T. Farral, of Third street, in charge of the filling station, fired through a window. The bullet, it is thought, struck the man in the right arm.

The robbers' car sped south on Broadway, presumably toward the East Liverpool-Chester bridge, and made a getaway before police, who were summoned by Farral; firemen and pedestrians, alarmed by the revolver shot, reached the scene.

The hold-up occurred as Farral was preparing to close the station, all lights, excepting one in the office, being extinguished.

Salvation Army's Yule Dinner Fund Passes $1,077 Mark

Despite the steady rainfall, Salvation Army workers today continued their campaign for relief funds.

With contributions of $168.97, which came in yesterday, the fund totals $1,077.63. Collections in the street kettles yesterday were $48.05, while $58.92 was received from pottery workers. Checks, which came in through the mails, added $57 to the fund. Included in the checks was a contribution of $25 from Mrs. John N. Taylor.

Adjutant John G. Dean, in charge of the Salvation Army activities here, announced that kettles will be sent to Wellsville and to East End next Saturday, in addition to those which will be maintained in the downtown business district. Women, who are canvassing the potteries, will complete their canvass this week.

FOIL ALLIANCE SAFE BLOWERS

Blame Gang That Looted Moyer Store for Second Job.

Cracksmen, believed to be members of the gang that looted the Moyer Brothers' dry goods store safe here last Sunday morning, made an unsuccessful attempt to blow the safe of the Rowland Furniture company, Alliance, Sunday, it developed today.

The attempted robbery was discovered about 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when Roy Richards, a member of the firm, went to the store. He found the rear door open. Realizing something was wrong, Richards quietly entered the office, where he found the safe ready for blowing. The combination on the door had been chiseled off and nitro-glycerin and a fuse inserted in the small opening. The crack around the door had been soaped, two mattresses, a comfort and a pillow from a sofa being placed around the safe to deaden the noise.

Door Lock Battered.

Believing the yeggs had secreted themselves in the store, Richards called the police. A score of policemen and firemen, armed with riot

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The great city of New York, to which Samuel Gompers came 61 years ago a penniless immigrant boy of no distinction, paused thoughtfully in its manifold activities today and paid a noble tribute to his memory.

The body of the late president of the American Federation of Labor arrived in New York from Washington early today. It will lie in state at the Elks' clubhouse until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, when funeral services will be held.

A few hours later the body will be lowered to its final resting place in historic old Sleepy Hollow cemetery, at Tarrytown, in the rolling Hudson river country made famous by Washington Irving.

Gets Money at Point of Gun.

The bandits, evidently familiar with the custom of the filling station employee to transfer the money from the cash register to the safe before closing the station, drove up to the place as Farral completed a check-up of the receipts. They stopped their car at the farthest pump, almost at the apex of the triangular site occupied by the station.

As one man remained at the wheel of the automobile on which the side curtains had been placed, with the engine running, his confederate walked into the filling station and requested a quart of oil. When Farral turned to fill the order, the bandit, who wore an overcoat and kept his right hand in a pocket, stepped toward him, pressed a revolver against his side and commanded him to "hand over the money."

Without further ado, the robber picked up the sack, which contained bills and silver, and then ordered Farral to empty his pockets. In his trousers, Farral had $20 of filling stations receipts which had not been placed in the sack when the bandit entered the station. The bandit took this money and put it in his pocket.

Fires Through Window.

Backing toward the door, the robber said to Farral:

"You cannot call the police, for I have cut the telephone wires."

FOG IS BLAMED FOR FATALITY

LIMA, Dec. 17.—The heavy fog which has been covering this city like a blanket for the past 24 hours took its first toll this morning, when Christian Smith, 48, carpenter, stepped in front of a truck on the Public square and was instantly killed. Smith was on his way to work.

Talbot's Sentence Suspended.

Kinsey Talbot, Green lane, was arrested at his home yesterday charged with the abandonment of his two minor children, upon information furnished by his wife, Jeannette Talbot.

Arraigned before Justice P. V. Mackall last evening, Talbot pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to jail for 30 days. The fine and jail sentence was suspended upon condition that he contribute $15 bi-weekly toward the support of his children.

LET'S MAKE CHRISTMAS AN OCCASION OF UNIVERSAL CHEER, NOT SORROW, SAYS FIRE CHIEF BRYAN

"Let's have a fireless Christmas in East Liverpool!"

This was the appeal made today by Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, in a statement, warning the public against fire hazards, which prevail during the holiday season.

"Christmas, above all other days of the year, should be an occasion of universal cheer and not sorrow," the chief says. "Yet in many households it is likely to become a time of tragedy because of death or injury from fire, if care is not exercised."

"Figures issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters show that an average of one in every ten Christmas fires results in a fatality. Moderate carefulness will cut down this awful toll of life and will not detract one bit from the fullest enjoyment of the holidays."

Bans Lighted Candles.

"The Christmas tree is an old and beautiful symbol, and one that we all wish to see preserved. But it becomes none the less attractive when it is made safe, and it cannot even approach to safety so long as it is decked with lighted candles. If the tree must be illuminated, colored electric lights are more ornamental and, if properly rigged, far safer. Of course, a bright electric light focused on the tree, in a darkened room is a safe method and gives, perhaps, the most striking effect."

"It is not only on the trees, however, that candles are dangerous. Placing them in windows, where there are inflammable curtains and decorations, is extremely hazardous. It is a pretty custom, though, and I suggest, therefore, a safe way for those who wish to continue it. Let them purchase an electric candle, operated by a small dry cell battery; they are obtainable at most hardware stores."

Preparing Christmas Tree.

"In preparing the Christmas tree for Santa's visit, make sure that it is securely set up, so that it will not topple over, and keep it away from heating and lighting fixtures. Use metal tinsel, flake asbestos and powdered mica for snow effects instead of paper clippings and cotton. Smokers should be unusually careful with matches and smoking materials while near trees and decorations. Evergreens should be removed immediately after Christmas before they have completely dried out."

"Avoid toys requiring alcohol, gasoline or kerosene for their operation, and also flimsy motion picture machines using inflammable films. Low-priced electrical playthings, too, should be tabooed since they often are defectively wired and frequently have insucure dangerous connections; they have caused serious burns and fires."

"If Santa Claus is to be present at the celebration, persuade him to avoid the use of long cotton whiskers. His costume can be practically fire-proofed by spraying upon it a solution of water glass, procurable at any drug store."

Avoid Yuletide Fire.

"If, despite these precautions, somebody's clothing catches fire, he or she should be instantly rolled in a rug or woolen cloth, in order to smother the flames. Keep the fire away from the face."

Heart Disease Kills Woman Who Attempts To Raise Window

Exertion due to an attempt to hoist a window caused the death of Mrs. John Kale, 82, Somer street, Leetonia, late yesterday afternoon.

When her husband returned home, he found himself locked out. Mrs. Kale, who has been suffering from heart disease for several months, was in an upstairs room and attempted to raise the window to talk to her husband.

The window stuck and suddenly jockey, turned pastor, now on trial for his life for removing his embarrasing husband from his road to happiness with Elsie Sweetin, is to assume.

His counsel, Nelson Layman, let this be known today, formally announcing that when the time came the little circuit rider would argue his own case before the jury which will hold his life in their hands. This course, Layman holds, will serve a double purpose. First, it will give Hight a chance to protest his innocence and second it will enable the jury to accurately gauge the mental capacity of the preacher.

Test of Sanity.

"If he wanders too much," Layman said today, "I'll stop him with a suggestion that he isn't talking sense, and then I'll turn to the jury and ask them to judge whether this man is responsible for anything he did or does."

Hight will not again be placed on the witness stand, Layman said as he has a tendency to witt under hot cross-examination.

The state today was placing on the stand its final witnesses and it was expected to close its case late this afternoon.

Yesterday the town folk of Ina, who had seen Elsie Sweetin grow up from pigtail days, and who have worshipped at the shrine of the minister, had their day. They took the stand to repeat the gossip of a small town, to tell of tabernacle meetings and prayer meetings, sessions in porch swings and extraordinary handshaking between Elsie, the woman, who was held "right pretty," and the preacher who seemed devoted.

Comedy in Neighbors' Gossip.

Comedy snuggled close to the women's skirts and sneaked up the steps with the witnesses as they settled down to tell the jury and their neighbors assembled in the courtroom what they had seen and what they heard.

Every one in Ina apparently had noticed something funny about Elsie and the preacher. They talked about it over the backyard fence, but there was little proof of wrongdoing in the fund.

Jurors Taken to Dinner After 30 Minutes' Deliberation.

COURT'S CHARGE

Four Findings Possible Nine Men and Three Women are Told.

The case of William A. Wolfe, clay miner, charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Flora Dearth, Mulberry street restaurant owner, went to the jury in common pleas court, Lisbon, at 11:50 a. m., today.

After 30 minutes' deliberation the nine men and three women were taken to dinner. They resumed their consideration of the evidence at 1 p. m.

Court house attaches predicted an early verdict.

Judge's Charge to Jury.

When court opened this morning, Attorney F. E. Grosshans, of the defense, occupied the last 25 minutes allotted for the closing arguments in behalf of Wolfe. Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Hanley, who made the closing argument for the state, spoke for more than an hour.

Judge Carl Smith, after declaring a short recess, occupied about 25 minutes in delivering his charge to the jury.

The court said that four forms of verdict were possible, viz: not guilty, manslaughter, guilty in the second degree and not guilty in the second degree, on the sole ground of the defendant being insane.

Mr. Grosshans made an impassioned plea in behalf of his client.

Prosecutor Hanley, in his closing statement, said: "The question before you is, whether or not a man can have a brainstorm and kill a woman and get away with it."

Hypothetical Question.

The defense submitted the following hypothetical question to Dr. Arthur G. Hyde, superintendent of the Massillon state hospital for the insane, at Tuesday afternoon's session:

Reverential Silence.

The train bearing the body of Gompers arrived at the Pennsylvania station at 7 o'clock this morning. Hurrying hundreds on their way to work stopped outside the station for a brief view of the solemn cortege as it started for the Elks' club house.

Although it was nearing the peak of commuters traffic at the station when the funeral train arrived, the huge, cathedral-like building was for the time more like a religious edifice than a bustling passenger terminal. There was an unnatural stillness in the vast high ceilinged waiting room. It was a silence as of a period of prayer and meditation in a sanctuary. The reverberating voice of the train announced was silent. Only the soft shuffling of travelers feet was audible.

Escorted by a platoon of police, city and state labor officials, the cortege moved through the downtown streets to the Elks' club house in Forty-third street. The bronze casket was borne on a cusion and draped with an American flag, the symbol of the nation that was on the lips of

This was the appeal made today by Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, in a statement, warning the public against fire hazards, which prevail during the holiday season.

"Christmas, above all other days of the year, should be an occasion of universal cheer and not sorrow," the chief says. "Yet in many households it is likely to become a time of tragedy because of death or injury from fire, if care is not exercised."

"Figures issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters show that an average of one in every ten Christmas fires results in a fatality. Moderate carefulness will cut down this awful toll of life and will not detract one bit from the fullest enjoyment of the holidays."

Gov.-elect Bingham Elected Senator by Connecticut Voters

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 17—Connecticut followed tradition and sent a Republican Senator to Washington to succeed the late Frank B. Brandeis, election figures revealed today. While Hamilton Holt, of New York, standing for the Senate from Connecticut as a Democrat, carried the large towns of the state with the sole exception of Bridgeport, Hiram Bingham, once a Yale professor, and now governor-elect of this state, swept the small towns in yesterday's re-election of the court to admit Elsie's signed confession to evidence, a question as to whether or not the jury could find the pastor guilty and acquit Elsie, his co-defendant, for her husband's murder.

Today also there arose in court room circles, following yesterday's refusal of the court to admit Elsie's

LET'S MAKE CHRISTMAS AN OCCASION OF UNIVERSAL CHEER, NOT SORROW, SAYS FIRE CHIEF BRYAN

"Let's have a fireless Christmas in East Liverpool!"

This was the appeal made today by Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, in a statement, warning the public against fire hazards, which prevail during the holiday season.

"Christmas, above all other days of the year, should be an occasion of universal cheer and not sorrow," the chief says. "Yet in many households it is likely to become a time of tragedy because of death or injury from fire, if care is not exercised."

Of course, a bright electric light focused on the tree, in a darkened room is a safe method and gives, perhaps, the most striking effect.

"It is not only on the trees, however, that candles are dangerous. Placing them in windows, where there are inflammable curtains and decorations, is extremely hazardous. It is a pretty custom, though, and I suggest, therefore, a safe way for those who wish to continue it. Let them purchase an electric candle, operated by a small dry cell battery; they are obtainable at most hardware stores.

Evergreens should be removed immediately after Christmas before they have completely dried out.

HERALDED COLD WAVE ARRIVES

Ohio Awaits Attack as Chicago Becomes City of Ice.

A cold wave sweeping down from the west and northwest, struck Chicago today and is expected to reach Ohio tonight or tomorrow.

"Sleet and snow and much colder" is the weather man's prediction for East Liverpool tonight.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The heralded cold wave, which, within 24 hours has brought the lowest temperatures in years to the west and northwest, descended on Chicago during the night and today had transformed it into a city of ice.

Thermometers which stood at 37 degrees last evening, dropped dizzyly as the night wore on, chilling what had been a drizzling rain into a sheeting of ice on streets, rails and telegraph wires, impeding all traffic and causing scores of accidents.

The full intensity of the cold wave, however, had not reached here with the 20 degree temperature registered today, according to weather bureau officials. The frigid weather, moving from the Canadian northwest, where sub-zero temperatures have prevailed for two days, was slightly delayed, they said, and would probably reach here late today.

It was warming up at Winnipeg and over the northwest generally today. Winnipeg reported a temperature of 16 degrees below zero at 4 a.m. and only 10 below at 8. It was 26 below there yesterday. Minneapolis reported eight below at eight a.m.

guns, responded, but could find no trace of the robbers.

An investigation disclosed that the lock on the front door at the establishment had been battered open much the same way as was done at the Moyer Brothers' store here. It is believed that the back door had been opened to facilitate the escape of the bandits should they be discovered at work. The eggs, it is thought, were at work when Mr. Richards arrived at the store, but managed to make their getaway while he was calling the police. Burglar tools, carried in a tan leather brief case, were found near the safe.

Police fearing to tamper with the safe were forced to set off the explosive, blowing the door open. Had the eggs been successful they would have obtained but $50. Receipts of $50 which was retained for change Monday morning, had been banked about 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Alliance police believe that the robbery was attempted after daybreak Sunday. This being true, there is a possibility that both the Moyer store and the Alliance robbery were committed by the same parties, as the local safe-cracking job occurred between 5:30 and 6:30 a.m.

Filling Station

As the bandit retraced his steps toward the automobile, Farrall reached for his revolver and fired through the window of the filling station.

The shot, which is believed to have struck the robber in the right arm, caused the fugitive to drop the sack of money, as well as the glove on his right hand. He then leaped into the automobile and the car raced down Broadway.

Without stopping to ascertain whether the bandit's story of cutting the telephone wires was true, Farrall ran across St. Clair avenue to the Tony Cascio fruit store and called police headquarters. Officer James Haley responded and took up the chase for the robbers.

Firemen Respond To Call.

In the meantime, Carl Gruber, of the Keystone Printing company, who was in the printing shop, adjoining the filling station, heard the shot, took in the situation and then ran into the Central station, next door, and notified firemen on duty.

Fire Chief Bryan and Firemen George Metcalf, Earl Clinton and Richard Silverson responded, but the robbers had disappeared.

Captain of Police Conley and Chief of Police McDermott began an investigation of the case late last night and resumed their inquiry today.

that on his maternal side that he had an uncle who, at the age of 24 years, was confined in an insane asylum and is still confined at the age of 48, and that his grandfather on his maternal side was feeble-minded; and that the defendant at the age of 14 years was kept out of school for the reason that he could not learn, and that he was reading in the third reader at the time he was taken from school; that from the time he was 12 years of age he had always handled and carried firearms, knives and that he preferred to be in the open by himself, and was shooting at objects around the house; that he was with young children domineering and would take powder and place it near the fire and blow the powder in the fire; and that at the age of 15 or 16, because he was asked by his uncle to cut some wood, that he picked up an ax, struck him with it, fracturing two ribs; that he was easily angered; had a violent temper, was vindictive and cruel; that since arriving at the age of 22 or 23 years, that he assumed control and management of a restaurant in which he claims that he had a half interest, and in which it is claimed he had no such interest; that when working around the restaurant he would throw down the towel and apron used by him when others would give assistance to the owner of the restaurant; that he threatened to kill people over some assumed wrong upon his part in which there was no justifiable reason; that when in a fit of anger his eyes would have a glassy and wild appearance, and that at times his body would twitch, and that while in this rage or state of mind, he apparently did not know what he was doing or saying, and that while at work in a mine he shot a revolver where other men were employed; that the man who secured him a position as stable boss was a colored man and when he went to the stable to inquire as to how he was getting along, that he called him a Black African.

; drew a knife and accused him of taking his job; that on the evening that Mrs. Dearth was shot at about 9 o'clock, he went into the restaurant and Mrs. Dearth followed him, and the doors were locked, and that he shot Mrs. Dearth and immediately shot himself in an attempted suicide.

"What would you say, doctor, from all these facts, as to whether or not Mr. Wolfe, on the day of this murder, the third day of October, 1924, was sane or insane?"

Claim Prisoner Is Insane.

Dr. Hyde's reply was:

"He is insane."

Dr. Hyde then described a moron, such a person as Wolfe was pronounced to be at the hearing where his sanity was in question, and he continued with the statement that he believed Wolfe was mentally irresponsible because he is a low type of moron.

It was also brought out that Dr. Hyde made an examination of Wolfe and in the county jail Wednesday, and that the prisoner told conflicting stories at the time of this examination.

Under cross-examination by Prosecutor Hanley, Dr. Hyde testified that the fact that a man claimed to have an interest in a restaurant would not indicate he was insane, neither would it indicate he was insane if he carried a gun. The witness also declared that the wound, such as Wolfe received, would result in loss of memory.

Dr. Charles H. Bailey of East Liverpool, placed on the stand by the defense, related the condition of Wolfe when he was received at the East Liverpool hospital. His testimony was quite similar to that offered at the sanity hearing.

Other Physicians Testify.

"He is insane," declared Dr. Sewall Harris, of Lisbon, after Attorney Frank E. Grosshans read the hypothetical question to him, and he then went on to detail certain reasons why he believed Wolfe to be mentally irresponsible.

Dr. J. M. Chetwynd of East Liverpool, called to stand, said:

"It is my opinion that Wolfe was insane the night of Oct. 3."

Under cross-examination by Assistant Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes, Dr. Chetwynd testified that Wolfe was of a low mental type.

"Do you think that a boy 14, leaving school would be insane?" Mr. Brookes asked.

"No sir," the witness replied.

Dr. F. F. Davis of East Liverpool, detailed the condition of Wolfe the night of Oct. 3 when he was received at the East Liverpool hospital, and said that he was then suffering from surgical shock.

Mother is Recalled.

"Did Will ever have any money saved?" Mrs. Wolfe, mother of the defendant, was asked when she was recalled to the stand by Mr. Grosshans.

"Why no," she replied.

Mrs. Wolfe explained that the father of the prisoner was not in court because of illness. A physician's certificate to this effect was presented in court.

Clerk of Courts John T. Burns, called by Mr. Hanley, read the verdict rendered by the jury which heard the testimony in the case when Wolfe was being tried for insanity. This verdict found Wolfe sane, and a copy of the verdict was introduced as an exhibit by the state.

At 3:15 p.m. each side rested and following a recess Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Brookes began the opening argument to the jury. He was followed by Attorney Walter W. Beck for the defense. Time for argument was placed at one hour and 15 minutes for each side.

Other Physicians Testify.

"He is insane," declared Dr. Seward Harris, of Lisbon, after Attorney Frank E. Grosshans read the hypothetical question to him, and he then went on to detail certain reasons why he believed Wolfe to be mentally irresponsible.

Dr. J. M. Chetwynd of East Liverpool, called to stand, said:

"It is my opinion that Wolfe was insane the night of Oct. 3."

Under cross-examination by Assistant Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes, Dr. Chetwynd testified that Wolfe was of a low mental type.

"Do you think that a boy 14, leaving school would be insane?" Mr. Brookes asked.

"No sir," the witness replied.

Dr. F. D. Davis of East Liverpool, another defense witness, detailed the condition of Wolfe the night of Oct. 3 when he was received at the East Liverpool hospital, and said that he was then suffering from surgical shock.

Mother Is Recalled.

"Did Will ever have any money saved?" Mrs. Wolfe, mother of the defendant, was asked when she was recalled to the stand by Mr. Grosshans.

"Why no," she replied.

Mrs. Wolfe explained that the father of the prisoner was not in court because of illness. A physician's certificate to this effect was presented in court.

Clerk of Courts John T. Burns, called by Mr. Hanley, read the verdict rendered by the jury which heard the testimony in the case when Wolfe was being tried for insanity. This verdict found Wolfe sane, and a copy of the verdict was introduced as an exhibit by the state.

At 3:15 p. m. each side rested and following a recess Assistant Prosecutor Attorney Brookes began the opening argument to the jury. He was followed by Attorney Walter W. Beck for the defense. Time for argument was placed at one hour and 15 minutes for each side.

A tree recently felled in the West was as tall as a twenty-story building.

24 FATALITIES YEAR'S TOLL

"Save a Life" Conference Gives 1923 Accident List in City.

Twenty-four persons lost their lives in East Liverpool as the result of accidents during 1923, figures, which have been made public today in connection with "save a life" conference now being held in Washington, indicated.

Two were killed by automobiles, four on railroads, one by street cars, while 17 others are listed as miscellaneous, the majority of which occurred in factories.

Other cities of equal size reported the following accidental deaths: Alliance, 22; Ashtabula, 27; Belpre, 26; Elyria, 18; Lorain, 42; Mansfield, 37; Marion, 33; Newark, 27; Steubenville, 58; Warren, 12; Zanesville, 37.

The average shows that 22 persons out of each 100,000 population in cities and 12 out of each 100,000 population in the rural districts lost their lives in automobile accidents. The general average of all types of accidents shows the death rate to have been in excess of $3 for each 100,000 population.

heifers, $2.00 to $4.50; canner steers, $3.00 to $7.00; veal calves (light and heavy weight), $4.00 to $10.50; feeder steers, $5.50 to $7.75; stocker steers, $5.00 to $7.25; stocker cows and heifers, $3.00 to $5.50; stocker calves, $4.00 to $7.00.

Calves—Receipts 3,600 head. Sheep—Receipts 17,000 head; market weak.

Universal Pipe common and preferred, the leaders in the specialty stocks, continued the sharp upward movement which was inaugurated in yesterday's session. The common at 42 showed a gain of 8 points from Tuesday's low, while the preferred was up six points. Colorado fuel and iron spurred to 45, on reports that the company had resumed operations in its rail mills. Operations of the United States Steel corporation were reported at 83 per cent of capacity against 78 last week, and independent steel mills are enjoying a corresponding increase in business.

The railroad stocks owed their heavy buying demand to rumors that, as a preliminary step to the consummation of important mergers, the valuable assets held in the treasury of such roads as central of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley, Reading, etc., would be distributed to stockholders. It was on this assumption that Central of New Jersey rushed up about 50 points from the low of last week.

Lehigh Valley was the leader of the rails today. Before the end of the first half hour this stock rushed up nearly eight points to a new high at 85, on an unusually heavy volume of transactions.

Universal Pipe common and preferred, the leaders in the specialty stocks, continued the sharp upward movement which was inaugurated in yesterday's session. The common at 42 showed a gain of 8 points from Tuesday's

HERALDED COLD WAVE ARRIVES

Ohio Awaits Attack as Chicago Becomes City of Ice.

A cold wave sweeping down from the west and northwest, struck Chicago today and is expected to reach Ohio tonight or tomorrow.

"Sleet and snow and much colder" is the weather man's prediction for East Liverpool tonight.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The heralded cold wave, which, within 24 hours has brought the lowest temperatures in years to the west and northwest, descended on Chicago during the night and today had transformed it into a city of ice.

Thermometers which stood at 37 degrees last evening, dropped dizzyly as the night wore on, chilling what had been a drizzling rain into a sheeting of ice on streets, rails and telegraph wires, impeding all traffic and causing scores of accidents.

The full intensity of the cold wave, however, had not reached here with the 20 degree temperature registered today, according to weather bureau officials. The frigid weather, moving from the Canadian northwest, where sub-zero temperatures have prevailed for two days, was slightly delayed, they said, and would probably reach here late today.

It was warming up at Winnipeg and over the northwest generally today. Winnipeg reported a temperature of 16 degrees below zero at 4 a.m. and only 10 below at 8. It was 26 below there yesterday. Minneapolis reported eight below at eight a.m.

guns, responded, but could find no trace of the robbers.

An investigation disclosed that the lock on the front door at the establishment had been battered open much the same way as was done at the Moyer Brothers' store here. It is believed that the back door had been opened to facilitate the escape of the bandits should they be discovered at work. The eggs, it is thought, were at work when Mr. Richards arrived at the store, but managed to make their getaway while he was calling the police. Burglar tools, carried in a tan leather brief case, were found near the safe.

Police fearing to tamper with the safe were forced to set off the explosive, blowing the door open. Had the eggs been successful they would have obtained $50. Receipts at the store during Saturday, excepting the $50 which was retained for change Monday morning, had been banked about 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Alliance police believe that the robbery was attempted after daybreak Sunday. This being true, there is a possibility that both the Moyer store and the Alliance robbery were committed by the same parties, as the local safe-cracking job occurred between 5:30 and 6:30 a.m.

Filling Station

As the bandit retraced his steps toward the automobile, Farrah reached for his revolver and fired through the window of the filling station.

The shot, which is believed to have struck the robber in the right arm, caused the fugitive to drop the sack of money, as well as the glove on his right hand. He then leaped into the automobile and the car raced down Broadway.

Without stopping to ascertain whether the bandit's story of cutting the telephone wires was true, Farrah ran across St. Clair avenue to the Tony Casco fruit store and called police headquarters. Officer James Haisley responded and took up the chase for the robbers.

Firemen Respond To Call.

In the meantime, Carl Gruber, of the Keystone Printing company, who was in the printing shop, adjoining the filling station, heard the shot, took in the situation and then ran into the Central station, next door, and notified firemen on duty.

Fire Chief Bryan and Firemen

George Metcalf, Earl Clinton and Richard Silivson responded, but the robbers had disappeared.

Captain of Police Conley and Chief of Police McDermott began an investigation of the case late last night and resumed their inquiry today.

"What would you say, doctor, from all these facts, as to whether or not Mr. Wolfe, on the day of this murder, the third day of October, 1924, was sane or insane?"

Claim Prisoner is Insane.

Dr. Hyde's reply was:

"He is insane."

Dr. Hyde then described a moron, such a person as Wolfe was pronounced to be at the hearing where his sanity was in question, and he continued with the statement that he believed Wolfe was mentally irresponsible because he is a low type of moron.

It was also brought out that Dr. Hyde made an examination of Wolfe in the county jail Wednesday, and that the prisoner told conflicting stories at the time of this examination.

Under cross-examination by Prosecutor Hanly, Dr. Hyde testified that the fact that a man claimed to have an interest in a restaurant would not indicate he was insane, neither would it indicate he was insane if he carried a gun. The witness also declared that the wound, such as Wolfe received, would result in loss of memory.

Dr. Charles H. Bailey of East Liverpool, placed on the stand by the defense, related the condition of Wolfe when he was received at the East Liverpool hospital. His testimony was quite similar to that offered at the sanity hearing.

Other Physicians Testify.

"He's insane," declared Dr. Seward Harris, of Lisbon, after Attorney Frank E. Grosshans read the hypothetical question to him, and he then went on to detail certain reasons why he believed Wolfe to be mentally irresponsible.

Dr. J. M. Chetwynd of East Liverpool, called to stand, said:

"It is my opinion that Wolfe was insane the night of Oct. 2."

Under cross-examination by Assistant Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes, Dr. Chetwynd testified that Wolfe was of a low mental type.

"Do you think that a boy 14, leaving school would be insane?" Mr. Brookes asked.

"No sir," the witness replied.

Dr. F. F. Davis of East Liverpool, another defense witness, detailed the condition of Wolfe the night of Oct. 3 when he was received at the East Liverpool hospital, and said that he was then suffering from surgical shock.

Mother is Recalled.

"Did Will ever have any money saved?" Mrs. Wolfe, mother of the defendant, was asked when she was recalled to the stand by Mr. Grosshans.

"Why no," she replied.

Mrs. Wolfe explained that the father of the prisoner was not in court because of illness. A physician's certificate to this effect was presented in court.

Clerk of Courts John T. Burns, called by Mr. Hanly, read the verdict rendered by the jury which heard the testimony in the case when Wolfe was being tried for insanity. This verdict found Wolfe sane, and a copy of the verdict was introduced as an exhibit by the state.

At 3:15 p.m. each side rested and following a recess Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Brookes began the opening argument to the jury. He was followed by Attorney Walter W. Beck for the defense. Time for argument was placed at one hour and 15 minutes for each side.

ASK HEALERS FOR NEW SIGNS

Placards at City Dumps Too Severe, Solons Aver.

Councilmen here don't believe in signs, especially those erected by the board of health at various dumping places throughout the city, and as a result, the heathers will be asked to politely to revise them.

The signs, of which the solons had no knowledge until queries began to pour into police headquarters and councilmanic ears during the last couple of days, asserted that those who dumped "garbage, rubbish, etc." at the points designated, would be liable to a fine of $100, under a city ordinance.

"What is garbage?"

This was the question solons pondered until City Solicitor Ingram consulted the city's codified ordinances. The ordinance book, however, refused to divulge any information on this point, but was very clear in its statements as to what could be dumped and what couldn't.

In connection with this phase of the subject, Councilman Ewing explained that one transfer man drove up to a Fourth street dump with a load of cinders which he expected to leave there. The garbage sign stared him in the face. Ostensibly, under conditions as set forth in the lettering, he could not dump the ashes. Having no desire, he told Mr. Ewing, to part with $100, he backed away.

So the question, "What can be dumped, and what can't" came up for a solution last night.

The ordinance declares that garbage cannot be dumped, but it does permit dumping of ashes, tin cans and "substances of like nature."

No one knew at the time who put up the signs, so Clerk Hardman called Dr. M. C. Tarr on the telephone. The latter, who is city health commissioner, explained that the signs were intended only to warn against dumping of garbage, trash, from houses and buildings named in the ordinance, and like matter, and a caution to those who might extend beyond the limit.

Solicitor Ingram advised solons to pass a motion, which they did, requesting the mayor to authorize a change in the lettering of the signs, making an amicable adjustment with the board of health.

SEEK ANOTHER CAR STOP HERE

The traction company will be asked to make a special stop at Pine alley, at the corner of the home Loan building, between Fifth and Sixth streets, as a result of a request from Postmaster John McQueen.

Postmaster McQueen communicated with solons "in behalf of clerks and letter carriers," who, he said, would be benefited by the special stop, as well as the general public.

Councilman Nicholson opposed the suggestion because of the fact that cars then would be making three stops in a block, one at Fifth, one at Pine alley, and one at Sixth street. He pointed out that only recently council members were censoring the traction company because of the stops made by cars along the route, and holding up traffic. He explained that car crews now are forced almost to the limit to maintain schedules on the main line, although he pointed out that traction company employees were always willing to aid the postal workers in any way possible.

A motion was made by Councilman Peters that the suggestion be carried to the car company, and seconded by White, Connor, Peters, White and Baker voted affirmatively. Solons Ewing and Nicholson opposed the action.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

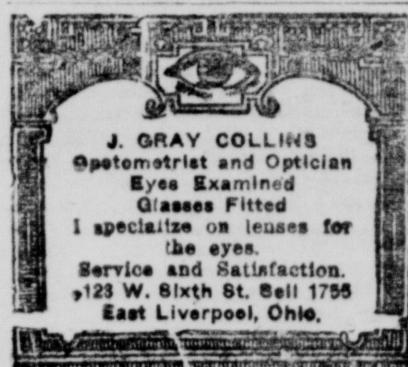

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy take two level tablespoons of 2½ oz. pieces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tick, or may be a violent loss from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

TRYING TO FIND COASTING PLACE

Councilman Clyde Baker is still trying to find a place for the youngsters to coast.

He again brought up the subject last night. The result was the appointment of a committee of himself and W. C. Connor to discuss the matter with the mayor.

Councilmen generally agree that the kiddies should have several places to sled ride, but know of no way of getting away from the liability question, which may pop up in case of accident.

Mrs. Buchman Hostess

Mrs. Anthony Buchman was hostess to members of the Jolly Matrons club last evening at her home in Main street, the affair being the club's annual Christmas party.

The home was appropriately decorated. Five hundred was the chief diversion. Gifts were exchanged by club members.

At the close, Mrs. Buchman served a three-course chicken dinner, assisted by her niece, Virginia Beresford, and Mrs. John Riley. The tables were decorated with miniature Christmas trees and pinsettas. Mrs. Harry Beresford and Mrs. John Kelley, sisters of the hostess, were guests.

ASK HEALERS FOR NEW SIGNS

Placards at City Dumps Too Severe, Solons Aver.

Councilmen here don't believe in signs, especially those erected by the board of health at various dumping places throughout the city, and as a result, the healers will be asked to revise them.

The signs, of which the solons had no knowledge until queries began to pour into police headquarters and councilmanic ears during the last couple of days, asserted that those who dumped "garbage, rubbish, etc." at the points designated, would be liable to a fine of $100, under a city ordinance.

"What is garbage?"

This was the question solons pondered until City Solicitor Ingram consulted the city's codified ordinances.

The ordinance book, however, refused to divulge any information on this point, but was quite clear in its statements as to what could be dumped and what couldn't.

In connection with this phase of the subject, Councilman Ewing explained that one transfer man drove up to a Fourth street dump with a load of cinders which he expected to leave there. The garbage sign stared him in the face. Ostensibly, under conditions as set forth in the lettering, he could not dump the ashes. Having no desire, he told Mr. Ewing, to part with $100, he backed away.

So the question, "What can be dumped, and what can't" came up for a solution last night.

The ordinance declares that garbage cannot be dumped, but it does permit dumping of ashes, the cans and "substances of like nature."

No one there knew at the time who put up the signs, so Clerk Hardman called Dr. M. C. Tarr on the telephone. The latter, who is city health commissioner, explained that the signs were intended only to warn against dumping of garbage, trash, from houses and buildings named in the ordinance, and like matter, and a caution to those who might extend beyond the limit.

Solicitor Ingram advised solons to pass a motion, which they did, requesting the mayor to authorize a change in the lettering of the signs, making an amicable adjustment with the board of health.

SEEK ANOTHER CAR STOP HERE

The traction company will be asked to make a special stop at Pine alley, at the corner of the home Loan building, between Fifth and Sixth streets, as a result of a request from Postmaster John McQueen.

Postmaster McQueen communicated with solons "in behalf of clerks and letter carriers," who, he said, would be benefited by the special stop, as well as the general public.

Councilman Nicholson opposed the suggestion because of the fact that cars then would be making three stops in a block, one at Fifth, one at Pine alley, and one at Sixth street. He pointed out that only recently council members were censoring the traction company because of the stops made by cars along the route, and holding up traffic. He explained that car crews now are forced almost to the limit to maintain schedules on the main line, although he pointed out that traction company employees were always willing to aid the postal workers in any way possible.

A motion was made by Councilman Peters that the suggestion be carried to the car company, and seconded by White, Connor, Peters, White and Baker voted affirmatively. Solons Ewing and Nicholson opposed the action.

FAILED TO GET JUNK LICENSE

Sam Burman, of East Liverpool, engaged in the junk business here without first going through the necessary formality of procuring a license, according to police.

Burman, as a result, is out $55.60, the amount of fine assessed by Acting Mayor Blackburn, and if he desires to continue as a figure in the local martis, will have to go into his pocket again for the price of a license, Burman, police said, objected to paying the fine at first. After considering the matter in the silence of a jail cell here for a short time, he changed his mind.

Missionary Meeting.

Mrs. James Leighton will be hostess to members of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at her home in Broadway.

Mrs. C. C. Culp will have charge of the study. The question box will be opened in connection with the regular business session.

TRYING TO FIND COASTING PLACE

Councilman Clyde Baker is still trying to find a place for the youngsters to coast.

He again brought up the subject last night. The result was the appointment of a committee of himself and W. C. Connor to discuss the matter with the mayor.

Councilmen generally agree that the kiddies should have several places to sled ride, but know of no way of getting away from the liability question, which may pop up in case of accident.

City Auditor Eckfeld's report follows: General fund, $1,290.21; safety, $1,982.22; health, $7.87; service, $8.67; water, $1,544.76; cemetery, $764.51; library, $718.49; special water, $57,694.58; auto license, $6,017.75; trust, $174; sinking fund depository, $16,801.91.

PEACE IN SLEEPY HOLLOW

Samuel Gompers will lie in the Sleepy Hollow cemetery at Tarrytown, New York, not far from the grave of Andrew Carnegie.

The much-talked of "community of interests" and "equality" between capital and labor become real in the graveyard.

In Sleepy Hollow cemetery, the Homestead strike and shootings, all the little wars that he made so important here will be forgotten.

On earth, in the sunshine equality of capital and of labor is not yet reality. Labor is labor with worry and uncertainty attached to it, usually. And capital, with all its worries, means some leisure and a systematic share in what labor produces.

But conditions are better than they were. When Samuel Gompers' body was taken to the railroad station, in a heavy coffin of bronze special cars were waiting and the track was cleared.

It is no longer a crime for workers to unite. It was a crime once. And they no longer brand with a red hot iron any workman convicted of leaving his own parish to seek employment in another. They did that in England, years ago.

Workmen include some not entirely free from race and religious prejudice.

They are invited to remember that the powerful labor unions of the United States, giving to workers the highest wages in the world, have been managed for a generation by Sampel Gompers, a Jew born in England and using his ability here to help other working people.

MUSCLES SHOALS AGAIN

President Coolidge, you may be sure, will view with amusement the attempt to hand a Teapot Dome scandal to his administration.

Gentlemen trying to turn over the power and unlimited possibilities of Muscle Shoals to a private company, will hear from President Coolidge when the time comes.

The first step in the business of making Muscle Shoals a dividend producing plant for the General Electric or some other company consisted in discouraging and tiring out Henry Ford.

RELY ON THE PRESIDENT

Now comes the second step. Senator Underwood, of course, does not suspect it. He is an ingenious statesman of high caliber and would not knowingly turn over public property to a private corporation, or knowingly deprive the south of the benefit that would come from the right kind of development of Muscle Shoals.

But that is exactly what his Muscle Shoals bill would do if it went through.

The president, being informed, it is safe to predict that won't go through. Competent men in the senate that understand the value of water power and also the devious methods of corporations will see that the president gets full information.

ARTIFICIAL GOLD? NOT YET

An excited dispatch from Berlin tells you that American bankers are supplying funds for experiments that would obtain gold from baser metals. They hope that gold can be produced as cheaply as tin or copper.

Hope is beautiful, considerably more beautiful than the gold that gullible American gentlemen will get for their latest attempt at transmutation of base metals.

When a scientist looks into an atom of pure gold, counts the electrons that revolve around the nucleus and realizes dimly the power, knowledge and precision involved in a single atom of any of the elements, he knows that no little human being is going to manufacture such atoms for himself off-hand. Perhaps, in a million years, but not now.

There is in this universe a marvelous balance, supplying to this little earth, and to distant suns whose substance is analyzed by the spectroscope, in the quantities needed. We have mountains of iron because we need mountains of iron. We have oceans of hydrogen and oxygen, because the earth needs them.

Wise nature won't permit man to decide in advance the sex of one unborn child. To do so would produce too many boys, too few girls. And nature won't allow men to change the elements that he really needs, iron, or hydrogen, into gold that he does not need. Don't invest your money in any scheme to manufacture gold.

Attempts to do so, of course, will produce useful results. Whatever man does he learns something. Today's accurate chemistry is based upon the work of the old alchemists, vainly attempting to manufacture gold.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Who owns the historic old chateau of Chambord? Brother is fighting brother for the possession of this royal relic which dominates the beautiful Loire valley. The affair now before the law courts recalls the history of the royal house of France after Louis XII and the passions and prejudices of the greatest of wars.

In 1817, the death of the Comte de Chambord left Robert, Duke of Parma, in possession of the castle. He was married twice and died in 1807, leaving Prince Elle, the eldest son of his second marriage, an Austrian officer, as heir. His claim was not acknowledged until 1816, a year after the Count of Blois had sequestered it as enemy property. The Princes Sixte and Xavier of Bourbon-Parme, representing the remaining children of the Duke of Parma, insisted that the property be divided among the children equally. The war had separated them, and while Prince Elle was serving on the Austrian general staff, his half-brothers were serving as officers of artillery in the Belgian army. The first received the iron cross from the kaiser and the others the Croix de Guerre from Monsieur Poincaré.

The corkscrew stairway, which allows two people to ascend at the same time without meeting each other, is the most curious feature of this great castle of more than 400 rooms. Built in the thirteenth century by the counts of Chambord for a hunting lodge, Louis XII made it a palace which later became the seat of sports and loves of the kings during many centuries. Diana of Poitiers, the favorite of Henri II, was a frequent visitor, as well as Francois I, who spent millions of francs beautifying it. Henri IV and Louis XIII liked to spend certain seasons there, but Louis XIV thought it too poor for theatrical display, although he fitted up a magnificent theater with audience seats arranged upon the great staircase.

The castle of Chambord would have met its end during the revolution if the cost of destruction had not been so great. However, it was stripped of its treasures and left a sorry ruin. Napoleon made it a gift to the Prince of Wagnam, who asked to be relieved of it when the revenue for keeping it up failed to come in regularly. Louis XVIII finally returned it to the crown. During recent years there has been some question of converting it into a great factory.

The "cinq a sept," the "five to seven," rendezvous is Paris' dangerous hour and the cause of a large part of her traffic troubles, according to the French authorities, who are trying to clean up the difficulty.

"When shall we meet again?"

"Saturday, if you like."

"At what time?"

"Well, I'll be free from 5 to 7."

Another dialogue:

"When do you go for a fitting?"

"Tomorrow, between 5 and 7."

Conversation between business men:

"Then we will sign the contract tomorrow?"

"Yes, at what hour?"

"Oh, come around about 5."

All rendezvous, frivolous as well as serious, take place at the dangerous hour. Everything comes at the same time, which means that great numbers of people are in their cars and taxis going to their rendezvous, and the traffic police don't know what to do with all the cars at the corners.

"Some people will have to change their hours," says Clement Vautel in Le Journal. "Business men will have to sign their contracts at another hour and even change their time of courting if we want Paris to overcome traffic troubles. From 5 to 7 in the morning is perhaps a bit too early to get the women up for their 'try-ons' and courting in the morning hours is poor business, but—desperate diseases demand desperate remedies."

GOVERNMENT PARTICIPATION IN BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Efforts continue to put the government of the United States into active business and if the trend which seems to have started continues successfully, the government will conduct the biggest merchandising affairs in the world. The war finance corporation set the style on a large scale. This corporation, established as a war measure, still is functioning and doing an enormous business. It is a bank for farmers and exporters, but like all big banks, it has to get into the merchandising business when loans become in default. For instance, it now owns thousands of head of cattle and other commodities, products of farms which were the original security for loans made.

The newest effort along this line is actually to form a great government corporation which would deal in farm products. Representative McLaughlin, of Nebraska, has introduced a bill in congress which would create the United States corporation of intelligent guidance of agriculture. The corporation would have a capital of $200,000,000 to be subscribed by the treasury and, in addition, it would be authorized to borrow an equal amount through the issuance of bonds, debentures or such evidences of indebtedness.

The corporation would seek to better the condition of American agriculture by guiding production and distribution of farm products. To do this it would have to enter actively into the business itself. The scheme is a comprehensive one. It has been advanced as a panacea for farm ills, but, of course, there is difference of opinion concerning how successfully it would operate.

The board of directors of the corporation would be composed of the secretary of agriculture as chairman and six directors to be named by the president. It would be their function to so shape agricultural policies that there would be overproduction of any farm product and that there always would be markets, both foreign and domestic, for the crops. By maintaining a nice balance, proper prices for the producer and proper prices for the consumer would be assured, according to the theory of the proposal.

Through the dissemination of information, the corporation would instruct farmers in how to prevent waste on farms. It would teach farmers to stop production of unprofitable and unsalable crops. Huge surpluses, calculated to depress prices would be prevented. It would restrain the cultivation of land unfit for certain crops, developing only the proper areas along the most economical and productive lines. Profiteering would be prevented by its handling of the distribution, and orderly marketing would be provided.

WOULD EQUALIZE SUPPLY

An interesting function of the corporation would be the accumulation of reserve stocks of food products to be carried in storage as insurance against crop failures arising from climatic catastrophes, insect pests or plant diseases. A system would be worked out which, it is planned, would tend to keep only the necessary number of farmers in that occupation.

WOULD EQUALIZE DEMAND

The corporation would work in connection with existing farmers' co-operative organizations, but it would carry on directly, under its own name, a large number of enterprises. For instance, it would have vast storehouses for the warehousing of farm products. In connection with these, it would establish canning factories or make contracts with canneries for the processing of the products held.

Regional marketing commissions would be established by the corporation which would supervise the selling of products in all sections. Production and distribution would be guided by these bodies. If farmers were planting so much wheat that an unmarketable surplus impended, they would be advised to abandon some acreage; if, on the other hand, too little was being put in the ground, they would be told to increase the plantings.

Many other powers are proposed to be given the corporation, including that of dealing in foreign exchange to prevent fluctuations in foreign marketing, watching the effect of the tariff on prices and reporting to the tariff commission its observations and ascertaining what prices are fair.

It is not regarded at Washington as likely that any such measure will be enacted by congress, but the fact that it has been seriously proposed shows the trend of modern legislation toward increasing activity of the government in actual business.

The shipping board, through the emergency fleet corporation, already is a big business organization, operating vessels in the foreign trade in an effort to make profits. If the government concludes to operate the Muscle Shoals project itself instead of leasing it to private parties, the United States will be the biggest power and fertilizer producer in the world.

PRESIDENT HARDING AGAINST IT

Mr. Harding, when president, laid down the dictum that the government should keep out of business, but there seems, nevertheless, an increasing gravitation in the direction of greater participation.

Another bill of much importance which has been introduced in the present congress provides for federal incorporation of the world commerce corporation. This would not be a government enterprise, but it would be under the direct wing of the federal government. At present there is no federal incorporation law. Corporations have state charters. In the foreign trade they sometimes are embarrassed because of a lack of federal backing. If an American corporation gets into legal difficulties abroad it often has trouble in getting proper recognition in a foreign court. The foreign court takes the stand that as the corporation is the creature of some state with which it has no diplomatic relations it is a sort of legal outcast. A federal incorporation law would correct this and bring to bear the influence of the government of the United States in support of an American company involved abroad.

The proposed world commerce corporation, which would be to some extent guided by the secretary of commerce, would engage in promoting foreign trade, doing a general importing and exporting represent manufacturers of all sorts of American business. Acting under its federal charter, it would have power to establish foreign trade zones, or free ports, establish fueling stations for the merchant marine and act as a sort of big brother to the American foreign trade as a whole.

Opera For East Liverpool

Lovers of good music and high class entertainment in East Liverpool certainly will have no complaint to make relative to the opportunities to hear the artists who have won national and international successes on the opera stage, judging from announcements made by the Civic Music Association and the Ceramic theatre management.

On Friday evening Claudia Muzio, prima donna soprano of Paris, Monte Carlo, Buenos Aires, Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies—an artist possessing an exquisite voice and a vivid personality—will appear here in the Civic Music Association's second of a series of concerts. She has achieved triumphs in the finest opera houses of Europe and South America, in the great dramatic parts of "Aida," "L'Amore dei Tre Re," "Pagliacci," "Monna Vanna" and "La Prophete."

On January 15, as a result of a special arrangement made in response to a demand on the part of grand opera supporters, the Ceramic theatre management will introduce the San Carlo Opera company to East Liverpool patrons. "Madame Butterfly" will be the opera presented.

In past years, longing for good music has been attested by the support given the East Liverpool Male Chorus and the Ohio Valley Choral Society in presentations of artists as soloists on their concert programs.

The reception given the San Carlo company will answer the question: Shall East Liverpool be included hereafter on the so-called opera map of the United States?

Convinced that everyone who knows and loves grand opera, and who has often regretted that the city has not been able to hear big operatic organizations such as San Carlo, composed of artists who for 18 years have been offering grand opera to the largest cities throughout the United States, will welcome the announcement, Manager William Tallman decided to engage the company of 100 persons who recently completed their New York success.

The opportunity to hear artists whose names are universally known, and many of them former members of Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies, is so rare that it merits editorial comment. And because opera is so expensive, as well as the most gorgeous union of arts, it will be interesting to watch the response. Usually every city supporting a resident opera company, and practically every city in which traveling companies of any importance are heard, are forced to subsidize them. However, in the case of the San Carlo company, the entire expense is borne by the theatre management, with the expectation that East Liverpool will support the engagement with a full house. Future of opera here is dependent upon the decision of lovers of good music.

Millions for Colleges

The Kansas City Star remarks, "If there is a sole requirement of the present-day university, it is an endowment of several million dollars. Not even a million or two in resources would permit an institution to become a university except in name."

The earliest universities grew up naturally. They were simply assemblages of students from any countries taught by men of genius.

The university today is that, and it is also a collection of fine and expensive buildings, extensive equipment in laboratories, scientific apparatus, libraries and research facilities, not to mention large and expensive stadiums.

Chicago university, with resources valued at approximately 50 million dollars, announces a campaign to double those resources. Harvard university has an endowment of 53 million dollars, but it felt the need of raising 10 million dollars more and started a campaign for that purpose last June. Other institutions are doing or already have done the same thing.

All of this is very fine. True education is undoubtedly worth all the millions ever spent for it, and many more. But often individuals both inside and outside of these institutions of higher learning forget that the material equipment is really only the tool of education and not the main thing.

PEACE IN SLEEPY HOLLOW

Samuel Gompers will lie in the Sleepy Hollow cemetery at Tarrytown, New York, not far from the grave of Andrew Carnegie.

The much-talked of "community of interests" and "equality" between capital and labor become real in the graveyard.

In Sleepy Hollow cemetery, the Homestead strike and shootings, all the little wars that he made so important here will be forgotten.

On earth, in the sunshine equality of capital and of labor is not yet reality. Labor is labor with worry and uncertainty attached to it, usually. And capital, with all its worries, means some leisure and a systematic share in what labor produces.

But conditions are better than they were. When Samuel Gompers' body was taken to the railroad station, in a heavy coffin of bronze special cars were waiting and the track was cleared.

It is no longer a crime for workmen to unite. It was a crime once. And they no longer brand with a red hot iron any workman convicted of leaving his own parish to seek employment in another. They did that in England, years ago.

Workmen include some not entirely free from race and religious prejudice.

They are invited to remember that the powerful labor unions of the United States, giving to workers the highest wages in the world, have been managed for a generation by Sampel Gompers, a Jew born in England and using his ability here to help other working people.

MUSCLES SHOALS AGAIN

President Coolidge, you may be sure, will view with amusement the attempt to hand a Teapot Dome scandal to his administration.

Gentlemen trying to turn over the power and unlimited possibilities of Muscle Shoals to a private company, will hear from President Coolidge when the time comes.

The first step in the business of making Muscle Shoals a dividend producing plant for the General Electric or some other company consisted in discouraging and tiring out Henry Ford.

RELY ON THE PRESIDENT

Now comes the second step. Senator Underwood, of course, does not suspect it. He is an ingenious statesman of high caliber and would not knowingly turn over public property to a private corporation, or knowingly deprive the south of the benefit that would come from the right kind of development of Muscle Shoals.

But that is exactly what his Muscle Shoals bill would do if it went through.

The president, being informed, it is safe to predict that won't go through. Competent men in the senate that understand the value of water power and also the devious methods of corporations will see that the president gets full information.

ARTIFICIAL GOLD? NOT YET

An excited dispatch from Berlin tells you that American bankers are supplying funds for experiments that would obtain gold from base metals. They hope that gold can be produced as cheaply as tin or copper.

Hope is beautiful, considerably more beautiful than the gold that gullible American gentlemen will get for their latest attempt at transmutation of base metals.

When a scientist looks into an atom of pure gold, counts the electrons that revolve around the nucleus and realizes dimly the power, knowledge and precision involved in a single atom of any of the elements, he knows that no little human being is going to manufacture such atoms for himself off-hand. Perhaps, in a million years, but not now.

There is in this universe a marvelous balance, supplying to this little earth, and to distant suns whose substance is analyzed by the spectroscope, in the quantities needed. We have mountains of iron because we need mountains of iron. We have oceans of hydrogen and oxygen, because the earth needs them.

Wise nature won't permit man to decide in advance the sex of one unborn child. To do so would produce too many boys, too few girls. And nature won't allow men to change the elements that he really needs, iron, or hydrogen, into gold that he does not need. Don't invest your money in any scheme to manufacture gold.

Attempts to do so, of course, will produce useful results. Whatever man does he learns something. Today's accurate chemistry is based upon the work of the old alchemists, vainly attempting to manufacture gold.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Who owns the historic old chateau of Chambord? Brother is fighting brother for the possession of this royal relic which dominates the beautiful Loire valley. The affair now before the law courts recalls the history of the royal house of France after Louis XII and the passions and prejudices of the greatest of wars.

In 1862 the death of the Comte de Chambord left Robert, Duke of Parma, in possession of the castle. He was married twice and died in 1907, leaving Prince Elle, the eldest son of his second marriage, an Austrian officer, as heir. His claim was not acknowledged until 1916, a year after the Count of Blois had sequestered it as enemy property. The Princes Sixte and Xavier of Bourbon-Parma, representing the remaining children of the Duke of Parma, insisted that the property be divided among the children equally. The war had separated them, and while Prince Elle was serving on the Austrian general staff, his half-brothers were serving as officers of artillery in the Belgian army. The first received the iron cross from the Kaiser and the others the Croix de Guerre from Monsieur Poincaré.

The corkscrew stairway, which allows two people to ascend at the same time without meeting each other, is the most curious feature of this great castle of more than 400 rooms. Built in the thirteenth century by the counts of Chambord for a hunting lodge, Louis XII made it a palace which later became the seat of sports and loves of the kings during many centuries. Diana of Poitiers, the favorite of Henri II, was a frequent visitor, as well as Francois I, who spent millions of francs beautifying it. Henri IV and Louis XIII liked to spend certain seasons there, but Louis XIV thought it too poor for treatable display, although he fitted up a magnificent theater with audience seats arranged upon the great staircase.

The castle of Chambord would have met its end during the revolution if the cost of destruction had not been so great. However, it was stripped of its treasures and left a sorry ruin. Napoleon made it a gift to the Prince of Wagnon, who asked to be relieved of it when the revenue for keeping it up failed to come in regularly. Louis XVIII finally returned it to the crown. During recent years there has been some question of converting it into a great factory.

The "cinq a sept," the "five to seven," rendezvous is Paris' dangerous hour and the cause of a large part of her traffic troubles, according to the French authorities, who are trying to clean up the difficulty.

"When shall we meet again?"
"Saturday, if you like."
"At what time?"
"Well, I'll be free from 5 to 7."

Another dialogue:
"When do you go for a fitting?"
"Tomorrow, between 5 and 7."
Conversation between business men:
"Then we will sign the contract tomorrow?"
"Yes, at what hour?"

"Oh, come around about 5."

All rendezvous, frivolous as well as serious, take place at the dangerous hour. Everything comes at the same time, which means that great numbers of people are in their cars and taxis going to their rendezvous, and the traffic police don't know what to do with all the cars at the corners.

Some people will have to change their hours," says Clement Vautel in Le Journal. "Business men will have to sign their contracts at another hour and even change their time of courting if we want Paris to overcome traffic troubles. From 5 to 7 in the morning is perhaps a bit too early to get the women up for their 'try-ons,' and courting in the morning hours is poor business, but—desperate dames demand desperate remedies."

DINNER STORIES

The story is told of the impudent and notorious Marquis de Favieres who visited a Parisian named Barnard, and announced himself as follows:

"Monsieur, I am about to astonish you greatly. I am the Marquis de Favieres. I do not know you, but I come to you to borrow five hundred luis."

Barnard answered with equal politeness:

"Monsieur, I am going to astonish you much more. I know you, and I am going to lend them to you."

Many beginners in golf—and many who are not beginners—are grievously afflicted with the malady of topping off the ball. A player whose efforts to cure himself of this affliction only resulted in the reverse of the Cane formula addressed a professional with gloom in his ear and despair in his eye. "I'm hitting the ball every time right on the top. I want you to tell me a cure for it!"

"Oh," replied the professional, "just turn the ball upside down."

The wife of a villager in Polton became ill, and presently fell into a trance, which deceived even the physician, so that she was pronounced dead, and duly prepared for burial. Following the local usage, the body was wrapped in a sheet, to be borne to the burial place on the shoulders of four men chosen from the neighborhood.

The procession followed a narrow path leading across the fields to the cemetery. At a turning, a

GOVERNMENT PARTICIPATION IN BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Efforts continue to put the government of the United States into active business and if the trend which seems to have started continues successfully, the government will conduct the biggest merchandising affairs in the world. The war finance corporation set the style on a large scale. This corporation, established as a war measure, still is functioning and doing an enormous business. It is a bank for farmers and exporters, but like all big banks, it has to get into the merchandising business when loans become in default. For instance, it now owns thousands of head of cattle and other commodities, products of farms which were the original security for loans made.

The newest effort along this line is actually to form a great government corporation which would deal in farm products. Representative McLaughlin, of Nebraska, has introduced a bill in congress which would create the United States corporation of intelligent guidance of agriculture. The corporation would have a capital of $200,000,000 to be subscribed by the treasury and, in addition, it would be authorized to borrow an equal amount through the issuance of bonds, debentures or such evidences of indebtedness.

The corporation would seek to better the condition

The cork screw stairway, which allows two people to ascend at the same time without meeting each other, is the most curious feature of this great castle of more than 400 rooms. Built in the thirteenth century by the counts of Chambord for a hunting lodge, Louis XII made it a palace which later became the seat of sports and loves of the kings during many centuries. Diana of Poitiers, the favorite of Henri II, was a frequent visitor, as well as Francois I, who spent millions of francs beautifying it. Henri IV and Louis XIII liked to spend certain seasons there, but Louis XIV thought it too poor for theatrical display, although he fitted up a magnificent theater with audience seats arranged upon the great staircase.

Proud She Knew Four Presidents*SALE OF HIGHWAY BONDS FAVORED

The two-day "good roads" conference of representatives of Kiwanis clubs from all parts of the state closed last night at Charleston with a banquet given to visiting members of the organization members of the state road commission and other state officials.

Albert Senedeker of Wheeling, chairman of the Kiwanis state good roads committee, in an address not only urged action by the legislature at its initial session to authorize issuance and sale of the remaining $20,000,000 of road bonds possible under the road amendment to the constitution but also urged raising the tax in gasoline from two to three cents, a move likewise called by the resolutions adopted at the final business session of the conference.

Governor Morgan likewise urged early authorization of the sale of the bonds, pointing out that the governor with advice from the road commission then could sell what portion and at what times necessary to carry on the road work. The governor also asked the visitors to carry back to their parts of the state and to legislature members from their counties "the idea that we must have a capitol" and that the delegates and senators must vote to expend money to build a capitol in keeping not only with what West Virginia is now but what she will be 50 to 75 years from now."

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What is the name of the President's dog and what is its breed? L. S.

A. The President has two dogs, Laddie Buck, a white collie, and Rob Roy, an airedale.

Q. What is the name of the shrine so often seen in Chinese and Japanese pictures, which looks like two upright posts with curved pieces across them? P. W. L.

A. In Chinese architecture, this is known as a paion, and often stands alone as a memorial. In Japanese, the name is torii. These gateways of light skeleton-like post-and-lintel construction, designed with delicately curved lines, are usually found as an approach to sacred places.

Q. What is the approximate cost of a fully equipped racing car of an up-to-date 91.5 cubic inch? C. K.

A. The American Automobile Association says the approximate cost of a modern racing car 91.5 cubic inch type would be sixteen thousand dollars.

Q. How many ex-Presidents wives receive Government pensions? W. J. M.

A. At the present time Mrs. Roosevelt is the only President's widow receiving a pension. The franking privilege was extended to Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Wilson, and the late Mrs. Harding.

Q. Why does boiled water taste flat? W. J. K.

A. Boiled water tastes different because the air is dissolved. After boiling, it may be aerated by passing it through a sieve-like device.

Q. Where is found the first mention of the papal tiara? A. G. S.

A. Joseph Braun, in a brief history of the papal tiara, says that it is first contained in the Liber Pontificalis. The term used is "damelacum."

Q. What is the length of the race course at Santa Monica? W. T. L.

A. The American Automobile Association says the old Santa Monica race course was simply a series of boulevards running around the town of Santa Monica, California, not being a special speedway in any sense. Due to adverse local legislation, no races have been held on this course since 1916.

Q. What will remove grease and dust from white paints? J. F. D.

A. A good way to clean white paint is to dip a piece of soft flannel cloth in warm water, wring it out, then dip it in clean bran, using this to rub the paint. The friction of the bran will remove the stains without injuring the paint.

Q. Why was Daniels da Volterra called "the breechesmaker?" D. V. Y.

A. The painter, Daniele da Volterra, was commissioned to add draperies to some of the figures in the painting, "The Last Judgment," after the accession of Paul IV. The title "Il Braghettoni" was, because of this circumstance, given to the painter.

Q. Where did Dempsey and Firpo fight the last time? W. D.

A. The last bout between Jack Dempsey and Louis Firpo was at the Polo Grounds, New York City.

Q. By what process is the eye put in the needle? F. M. S.

A. In 1826 a stamping machine was used for the first time to drill eyes into needles. The needles are fed into a machine which forms the flats of the eyes, which are then driven through by a punching machine. The processes for manufacturing needles are in excess of twenty.

Q. Where are the chestnuts now being sold in Washington obtained? G. E. K.

A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that the chestnuts now being sold in Washington are Italian, being shipped mainly from northern Italy. A very high percentage is in bad condition due to their not being properly cured and packed in Italy.

Q. In what part of the body do we find the typhoid plants of germs growing? W. P. B.

A. The Public Health Service says

DAMAGE SUIT IS INSTITUTED

Action Follows Crash of Machines On Salem-Lisbon Road.

Suit for $5,000 for personal injuries and $150 damages to his automobile, Commodore Perry and Mabel Perry have filed a petition in court against Edwin Harsh of Kensington.

The history of the cause of this action, as related in the petition, is to the effect that on September 1 the car Harsh was driving on the Lisbon-Salem road crashed into the machine Perry was driving, throwing Mabel Perry from her seat, breaking two of her ribs and caused other internal injuries from which she has not recovered.

The Perry car was trailing two other cars that were being driven slowly back of a threshing outfit, the petition relates.

It is also claimed by the plaintiff that the car contained four people, two men and two women, and that the license plates it carried were those issued for a coupe, and that the Harsh car was being driven at a reckless rate of speed. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Frank Cope.

Township Trustees Fail to Sell Bonds For Improving Road

Failure on the part of the trustees of Knox township to sell a bond issue for the share of the township in the cost of improving the Harrisburg-Wellsville road, from Westville west, caused a postponement in the letting of contracts by the state highway department at its recent road letting.

The cost of this improvement, which is to be shared by Knox township and also Smith township in Mahoning county, and in which the state has placed $5,000, has been estimated at $109,633.

All legislation has been passed by the Knox township trustees, but their bonds were not sold in time to have the money certified to the state highway department in time to open bids at the December letting.

Unless there is further unexpected delay, the bids for the improvement of this road will be opened at the January letting.

CIRK OF COURTS LISTING CASES

The bar docket for the January 1925 term of court is now being prepared by Clerk of Courts John F. Burns, and will be available for distribution within the next fortnight, it is said.

The January term of common pleas court will open January 12, and the April term will begin April. The September term of court next year will begin September 21.

Two sessions of the court of appeals will be held in this county next year, the first session opening April 6 and the second session on November 9, 1925.

It is very likely that the bar docket for the January term will show more cases listed on the assignment docket than appeared on the bar docket for the September term of court.

PETITION SEEKS SALE OF PROPERTY

Claiming that a judgment was obtained in the court of Justice of the Peace P. V. Mackall March 31, last, for $64.56, James S. Rinehart and others of East Liverpool have filed a petition in court asking that the common pleas court issue an order of sale for certain property in the Blackmore addition, East Liverpool, owned by George Little.

The Moore Furniture company, of East Liverpool, has filed a similar petition on the same grounds, its judgment for $52.56 having also been obtained in the court of Justice Mackall. In the petition in this case the Potters' Savings and Loan company have been named party defendants.

GRACE LAUGHLIN SUES FOR DIVORCE

Declaring in her petition that she had been ill treated by her husband and that she had to pay the rent of her home and purchase other necessities for their house, Grace M. Laughlin, East Liverpool, has filed an action for divorce in common pleas court against her husband, Frank M. Laughlin.

Mrs. Laughlin recites that she has been compelled to seek work as a stenographer, and that Laughlin has failed, neglected and refused to provide for her.

The petition shows that the couple were married in Lisbon November 5, 1921. The plaintiff asks the court for a decree of divorce and restoration to her maiden name, that of Grace M. Henderson.

Held to Court.

After being arrested on a charge filed by Myrtle Steffel in the court of Mayor G. E. Russell, of Salem, Robert Davis has been bound over to common pleas court, the transcript in the case having been filed with Clerk of Court John T. Burns.

U. S. FARM CENSUS NOW IN PROGRESS

A federal farm census is now being taken in every township in Columbiana county. The record, it is claimed, will be the most complete ever gathered. The census will show just how many people are engaged in farm activities in the county, how many acres are being tilled, the number of head of different live stock, and whether or not there has been an increase or decrease in the number of those engaged in farming during the last ten years.

Taking this census record has been in progress for several weeks, but it will be at least another month before the task is completed, so far as the field work is concerned.

POULTRY EXHIBIT IN NEW LOCATION

Instead of holding their annual poultry show in the Lisbon City Building, west Lincoln Way, and which was formerly known as the Bradberry hotel, the change of location was made because it is possible to take care of a larger entry list in the latter building than would be possible in the City Building.

Entries from East Liverpool and Salem are now being received, it was announced by Secretary C. A. Albright Wednesday.

Damages Sought.

Claiming that their farm property has been damaged because of the pollution of a stream of water flowing through it, Claude Lambright and Sarah E. Lambright have filed a petition in common pleas court, asking $5,000 damages from the city of East Palestine.

This is another of the sewage disposal plant damage actions which have been filed against the city of East Palestine.

Seek Missing Man.

Radio listeners Tuesday night were asked for information concerning the whereabouts of W. G. Walters, formerly of Johnstown, Pa., and whose mother is critically ill at her home in Johnstown.

It was broadcasted that Walters left his home two years ago, and when last heard of was in Chicago, he was about to leave for Ohio.

Wine Pudding Has Kick; Woman Swears Off it in Court

DETROIT.—Wine pudding may produce quite a "kick," Hattie Wilson, thirty-three, testified before Judge Harry B. Keldan. The court evidently agreed with her, and she was sentenced to the House of Correction for ten days or she must pay a fine of $10.

Miss Wilson was attending a party at which wine pudding was served, she said. She boarded a street car and spiked cakes and pudding on the car. "I'll never eat wine pudding again," said Miss Wilson, after hearing the court's verdict.

U. S. FARM CENSUS NOW IN PROGRESS

A federal farm census is now being taken in every township in Columbiana county. The record, it is claimed, will be the most complete ever gathered. The census will show just how many people are engaged in farm activities in the county, how many acres are being tilled, the number of head of different live stock and whether or not there has been an increase or decrease in the number of those engaged in farming during the last ten years.

Taking this census record has been in progress for several weeks, but it will be at least another month before the task is completed, so far as the field work is concerned.

POULTRY EXHIBIT IN NEW LOCATION

Instead of holding their annual poultry show in the Lisbon City Building, west Lincoln Way, and which was formerly known as the Bradberry hotel, the change of location was made because it is possible to take care of a larger entry list in the latter building than would be possible in the City Building.

Entries from East Liverpool and Salem are now being received, it was announced by Secretary C. A. Albright Wednesday.

Damages Sought.

Claiming that their farm property has been damaged because of the pollution of a stream of water flowing through it, Claude Lambright and Sarah E. Lambright have filed a petition in common pleas court, asking $5,000 damages from the city of East Palestine.

Seek Missing Man.

Radio listeners Tuesday night were asked for information concerning the whereabouts of W. G. Walters, formerly of Johnstown, Pa., and whose mother is critically ill at her home in Johnstown.

It was broadcasted that Walters left his home two years ago, and when last heard of was in Chicago, he was about to leave for Ohio.

Wine Pudding Has Kick; Woman Sways Off it in Court

DETROIT.—Wine pudding may produce quite a "kick," Hattie Wilson, thirty-three, testified before Judge Harry B. Kedian. The court evidently agreed with her, and she was sentenced to the House of Correction for ten days or she must pay a fine of $10.

Miss Wilson was attending a party at which wine pudding was served, she said. She boarded a street car and spilled cakes and pudding on the car. "I'll never eat wine pudding again," said Miss Wilson, after hearing the court's verdict.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Dascome looked down at her bent head, at the shape of her neck, snow-white, and the curve of her lovely shoulders; he glimpsed her face, very grave, very eager to appear businesslike and untroubled. "There!" she said, purposely whimsical. I think I have never made bargain so quickly. Who says money is not an accelerator?"

Dascome looked at the bit of paper, not at her. "I—when will you want to see my things?"

"On Monday."

"Very well. And thank you, Mrs. Kalme. You have done me a kindness. It is some time since I have had a home."

But for something vaguely desolate in his expression, she might not have answered with such genuine feeling: "I hope you will be very happy here."

"I am undeserving of the wish—I have deprived you of your home—nevertheless, I am grateful. Shall I bring my daughter tomorrow afternoon? You will have investigated me by that time?"

"Yes, tomorrow afternoon." She smiled at him and he at her.

XII

After the door had closed on Dascome, Karesia went over to the couch and sat down. She took up her fan, but held it motionless, turning her head slowly, her eyes vague, looking at the objects in the room. She saw them and was conscious of an ache, but not actively so. She felt as one does who has done something irretrievable, and realizes that she has been urged to it by her heart and not her head; throughout the transaction she had felt rather than thought. Now she was thinking rather than feeling.

She looked at the bills lying on the table. "It's done," she said aloud. "You have taken the money. It's the last thing you intended doing, putting yourself out of your home. And it's all because of your everlasting loneliness. He tried to explain, but there is something behind it all, and it intrigued you. And he knew perfectly well that it was not the thousand dollars a month that was putting him into your house. And there is his daughter."

Karesia ceased her mutter of words, but her thoughts ran on: His daughter was no child, what would be her attitude to all this? A strange woman surrounded by her father's possessions and she housed with a stranger's household effects! A curious arrangement it would seem, even to the incurious. Had she, Karesia Kalme, learned nothing about women? Their instant guarding of their mankind from the free-lance woman? The greater her charm, the more bitter their antagonism. Even an angry girl would be capable of unearthing another woman's past; constructing a past, if necessary.

Karesia shrank. "You can return that money. Say that you have changed your mind."

Her answer was a lift of the head. "I have a perfect right to look for happiness—I have had little enough of it! I want him here. I like him. I think he's straight—I think he's strong—a man! I can fight, too, if I have to, and I'd like to see the woman or man, who'll take from me anything I'm determined to have!"

She sprang up and going to the table took up the two bills. Bills and fan in hand, she turned out the lights. Then she went upstairs cautiously, a wary eye on Mary Bliss' door; she hoped the woman would not waylay her.

But all was silent up there; Mary Bliss' door was closed. Karesia felt that she ought to ask her whether she was comfortable, say that her own room was across the hall so she need not feel nervous. But she dreaded a frightened answer; she herself was so tensely keyed; suddenly, tonight, she had taken a vivid glimpse into the future; again she was challenging life.

Karesia opened her door softly, closed it, and went over to her dresser. She took her purse from a drawer and put the bills in it; she decided that she would put it under her pillow. Then, by chance, she saw her reflection in the long mirror, and paused agast. Her hands flew to her fiery cheeks and over them she looked at her barbaric self.

"The Pilgrim fathers have mercy on your soul!" she whispered. "You look the embodiment of all the virtues not! The dignified possessor of a double house! As son of Boston and you met him like this!" Her hands dropped slowly and she stood staring, utterly blank. Then, suddenly, the corners of her mouth quivered and began to lift, a dancing light sifted between her lashes, and whirling about, she dived for the bed and smothered paroxysms of laughter and speech in its covers:

"A respectable landlady—in checked—apron. A lamp what! . . . Oh, mercy! . . . Talking wisely of — bathrooms — and — cupboards! . . . Karesia's secret little—entrance! . . . Oh—my! . . . Oh! Oh!"

She gasped away her laughter finally, drew herself up and put back her hair. She brushed the tears of laughter out of her eyes, drew up her knees and sat with arms clasped about them. The sight of her magnificent fan almost brought on another paroxysm, but she throttled it.

"It's nothing to laugh at!" she said reproachfully. "You're utterly shameless!" And ruefully: "He doesn't know who you are—what on earth does he think you are? Wriggling around in that snake's skin. The amazing thing is that he didn't ask you! Not a quiver of an eyelash, not a hint of amusement or curiosity! He didn't even ask you whether you were in moviedom. No sign at all—straight, clear look into my eyes, perfect facial control. A gentleman that!"

She rose from the bed. "Tomorrow you put on a gingham, Kara ma—" She had caught her breath. She shook her shoulders impatiently. "Now what made me say that? The past—always the past!"

She took off her Russian dancer's garb soberly. After hours of lying awake she decided: "I shall tell him tomorrow that eight hundred dollars a month is all I will take."

XIII

The sun was looking full in her window when Karesia waked the next morning; she had overslept. Her first thought was of Mary Bliss. She slipped on a kimono and went out to the landing. The woman's door was closed and when Karesia knocked she received no answer.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What is the name of the President's dog and what is its breed? L. S. A. The President has two dogs, Laddie Buck, a white collie, and Rob Roy, an airedale.

Q. What is the name of the shrine so often seen in Chinese and Japanese pictures, which looks like two upright posts with curved pieces across them? P. W. L.

A. In Chinese architecture, this is known as a pa-lion, and often stands alone as a memorial. In Japanese, the name is torii. These gateways of light skeleton-like post-and-lintel construction, designed with delicately curved lines, are usually found as an approach to sacred places.

Q. What is the approximate cost of a fully equipped racing car of an up-to date 91.5 cubic inch? C. K.

A. The American Automobile Association says the approximate cost of a modern racing car 91.5 cubic inch type would be sixteen thousand dollars.

Q. How many ex-Presidents wives receive Government pensions? W. J. M.

A. At the present time Mrs Roosevelt is the only President's widow receiving a pension. The franking privilege was extended to Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Wilson, and the late Mrs. Harding.

Q. Why does boiled water taste flat? W. J. K.

A. Boiled water tastes different because the air is dissolved. After boiling, it may be aerated by passing it through a sieve-like device.

Q. Where is found the first mention of the papal tiara? A. G. S.

A. Joseph Braun, in a brief history of the papal tiara, says that it is first contained in the Liber Pontificalis. The term used is the "damascum."

Q. What is the length of the race course at Santa Monica? W. T. L.

A. The American Automobile Association says the old Santa Monica race course was simply a series of boulevards running around the town of Santa Monica, California, not being a special speedway in any sense. Due to adverse local legislation, no races have been held on this course since 1916.

Q. What will remove grease and dust from white paints? J. F. D.

A. A good way to clean white paint is to dip a piece of soft flannel cloth in warm water, wring it out, then dip it in clean bran, using this to rub the paint. The friction of the bran will remove the stains without injuring the paint.

Q. Why was Daniels da Volterra called "the breechesmaker"? D. V. Y.

A. The painter, Daniele da Volterra, was commissioned to add draperies to some of the figures in the painting, "The Last Judgment," after the accession of Paul IV. The title "Il Bracchietone" was, because of this circumstance, given to the painter.

Q. Where did Dempsey and Firpo fight the last time? W. D.

A. The last bout between Jack Dempsey and Louis Firpo was at the Polo Grounds, New York City.

Q. By what process is the eye put in the needle? F. M. S.

A. In 1826 a stamping machine was used for the first time to drill eyes into needles. The needles are fed into a machine which forms the flats of the eyes, which are then driven through by a punching machine. The processes for manufacturing needles are in excess of twenty.

Q. Where are the chestnuts now being sold in Washington obtained? G. E. K.

A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that the chestnuts now being sold in Washington are Italian, being shipped mainly from northern Italy. A very high percentage is in bad condition due to their not being properly cured and packed in Italy.

A. The flesh of the muskrat for human food is variously esteemed, but these animals are sold extensively in some markets of the East and Middle West. In the retail markets they are sold as "marsh rabbits" and have a flavor somewhat like the wild duck.

Q. To what use can osage orange be put? D. F.

A. The osage orange is used mainly as a hedge plant. The wood might be used for dyeing as a substitute for fustic. The fruit is inedible. The leaves have been successfully substituted for mulberry leaves in the feeding of silkworms.

We noted a grave error in a recent film. It failed to state the name of the twenty-second assistant director who had the job of oiling the megaphone for his boss to holler through—Nashville Banner.

MOUNTAINEERS FACE BIG JOB

Play Three Games One Week—Salem, Waynesburg, Allegheny.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 17.—Mountaineer floor athletes will be kept busy during the first week of the approaching door campaign because after meeting Salem college in the opening game here on Monday, January 5, they will play Waynesburg college on Wednesday, January 7, and Allegheny college on Saturday, January 10.

Three engagements the first week, even though all of them are to be played on the home floor, is a very difficult assignment for the quint Coach Francis H. Stadsvold has started to develop at the "Ark." The candidates now at work have been told of the early assignment and are making the most of their time.

Waynesburg is being met on the court for the first time in several years. Basketball men at the college just over the state line in Pennsylvania have already started work, according to reports reaching here, and Waynesburg fans are looking for a continuation of sport success as started by the strong Yellow Jacket eleven during the past football season. Aside from West Virginia the Waynesburg team was the only outfit to down West Virginia Wesleyan college on the gridiron.

Allegheny has also started floor work and there are many veterans on the Meadville, Pa., college squad. Last year the Mountaineers defeated Allegheny 49-28 here and a week later nosed out a 31-21 victory at Meadville.

The skirmishes with Salem,

Last Night's Fights

AT NEW YORK—Terry Estridge knocked out Rocky Smith of Battle Creek, Mich., in first round. Dave Weber, New York, defeated Joe Werner, Brooklyn, six rounds. Joseph Scalafio knocked out Al Lombardi, two rounds. Jos Canamore defeated Mike Reilly, three rounds. Frankie Fasano beat Irish Johnny Curtin, 12 rounds.

AT JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—Cuddy De Marco, of Charleroi, defeated Pedro Campano, Philippine lightweight, 10 rounds.

AT ALBANY, N. Y.—Freddy Maxwell, Brooklyn, was awarded judge's decision over Andy Tucker, New York, 10 rounds; Jerry Williams, Albany, knocked out Chubby Smith, Troy, three rounds; Sammy Blenfield, Brooklyn, awarded judge's decision over Sammy Marion, New York, 10 rounds.

AT WILKES-BARRE, PA.—Joe Colletti, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., bested Eddie Covington, colored midget, of Philadelphia, in eight rounds.

AT DETROIT—Jack Duffy, Toledo, beat Eddie Russell, Windsor, Ont. Barney Griffin, Milwaukee, outpointed Joe Grill, of New York. Tommy Stanton, Scranton, knocked out Jack Hall, Detroit.

AT DENVER—Harry Galfund, Brooklyn, welterweight, defeated Willie Hope, Denver, 3 rounds. Irvin Bige, Omaha, defeated Marty (Kid) Mack, Pueblo, Colo., three rounds.

AT BUTTE, Mont.—Dixie Lahood, Butte, intermountain bantamweight champion, knocked out Phil O'Dowd, Columbus, Ohio, in the sixth round of a scheduled 12 round bout. Young Lund, Salt Lake City, knocked out Bob Palmer, Billings, Mont., in second round of a scheduled eight round fight.

AT BUFFALO—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, defeated Jack Schoendorf, Milwaukee, two rounds; Jack Bernstein, Yonkers, defeated Tony Russo, Carnegie, six rounds; Willie Cunningham, Buffalo, defeated Phil Verdi, Rochester, six rounds; Art Wunder, Buffalo, defeated Johnny Sacco, Buffalo, six rounds; Joe Hall, Buffalo, defeated Wally Hopwood, Toronto, four rounds.

Waynesburg and Allegheny during the first six days of the 1925 campaign will put the new Mountaineer quint to a severe and thorough test. Veteran tossers will probably be called upon to bear the brunt of the burden, but the men who are to replace Hill at forward and Bowers at guard will play no small part in the battles. Coach Stadsvold stated that he hoped to have the Mountaineer team working with some degree of smoothness for the opening games.

WEST LIBERTY TO OPEN CARD

Stoop's Passers to Play at New Cumberland Saturday.

WEST LIBERTY, Dec. 17.—The West Liberty Normal basketball team will stage the first of several pre-season games with the New Cumberland Ramblers, a strong independent team, at New Cumberland Saturday evening.

Coch Stoops will bring his entire squad of 18 or 20 men to New Cumberland for this contest and will use all of them in the game regardless of the outcome in order to get a line on prospective members for the 1925 Varsity. The State Normal School season does not open until Jan. 9, 1925, when Glenville State Normal will be met on West Liberty's floor.

The fans of the upper Ohio Valley will have an opportunity for the first time to see many of the members of West Liberty's 1924 state championship football team perform on the basketball court. All of the members of the football squad but three are trying out for the basketball five and all will be given an opportunity to show their wares to Coach Stoops at New Cumberland Saturday night.

Capt. Combs of the 1924 eleven is a speedy forward on the court and is making a strong bid for a varsity berth. Capt. Elect Hand of the 1925 eleven has never played basketball before but he is a natural athlete and is picking up the finer points of the floor game rapidly. He may start at a guard position at New Cumberland. Kiger, star end and punter of this year's eleven will probably start the game at center although Stevens, a Chester high product may get the call at the initial tipoff.

The number of valley boys out for the West Liberty team who will play in this game adds a great deal of interest to the struggle. Ellis and McGraw, Steubenville high stars, who are well known in Ohio Valley athletic circles, will have a strong following from Steubenville to see their initial performance on the court for West Liberty. The work of "Jinks" Hamilton, former Chester high satellite, Shaw of Chester high and Stevens, also from Chester, will be watched closely by friends from Chester and East Liverpool. Coach Steeps is well known in Ohio Valley athletic circles for he served several years as coach at Weirton and New Cumberland when principal of Weir high school and superintendent of schools at New Cumberland, respectively.

PIRATES RELEASE CATCHER SCHMIDT

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17.—Because both Earl Smith and Johnny Gooch, young catchers of the Pirates, are ready for duty behind the bat, and because of the Pittsburgh club's policy of reconstruction, Walter Schmidt, veteran Buccaneer receiver, has been unconditionally released, according to Manager McKechnie.

Schmidt had been a member of the Pittsburgh club for nine seasons. As a result of his departure, the burden of the work will fall on Smith and Gooch, with Cliff Knox in reserve. Spencer, recruit from Birmingham, is the fourth member of the catching corps, and counting Jack O'Nslow and another youngster who'll be added later, there'll be six in the backstop crew.

Knox, according to McKechnie, has the markings of a fine maskman, apparently. The Pirate skipper plans to farm Knox out to some good club, if convenient, in order to keep him busy.

Old fashioned brewis is a dish that can be used to save stale bread. Dry the bread and roll down to crumbs, sift to have them the same size. Bring a pint of milk to boiling, add a little salt, stir in crumbs enough to thicken to a porridge, cook for ten minutes, add a lump of butter, a tablespoon of sugar, the same of honey, and serve cereal fashion with cream. If the crumbs are of several different kinds of bread, so much the better, for they improve the flavor.

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germs.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Salad—Dissolve one package lemon gelatin in one pint boiling water; when cool add one cup celery chopped, one cup apples chopped, one cup cabbage chopped, one cup English walnuts chopped, one small red pepper chopped. Pour into oblong pan and put in ice box. When ready to serve cut in slices, place on lettuce leaf and serve with mayonnaise.

Cup Cakes—One-half cup butter and lard mixed, one cup sugar, two beaten eggs, two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup milk, one tablespoon vanilla. This makes 18 cakes.

Pumpkin Pies—Make two crusts day before and put in ice box until ready to use next day. While making filling place crusts in oven and allow to bake until set, then pour in filling; two beaten eggs, two-thirds cup sugar, two cups pumpkin, one and one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, one-fourth teaspoon ginger.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

Frosting for Cakes—One tablespoon butter melted, one pound confectioners' sugar, scalding teaspoon vanilla. Frost six cakes, then add pink coloring and frost six more. Then add one tablespoon cocoa and finish. These cakes are quickly made and the children love the colored frostings.

SUGGESTION
In making her baby's layette one young mother thought that the seams in the little skirts were rather bulky, no matter how tiny they were. She crocheted the buttonhole stitch

Brews

Old fashioned brews is a dish that can be used to save stale bread. Dry the bread and roll down to crumbs, sift to have them the same size. Bring a pint of milk to boiling, add a little salt, stir in crumbs enough to thicken to a porridge, cook for ten minutes, add a lump of butter, a tablespoon of sugar, the same of honey, and serve cereal fashion with cream. If the crumbs are of several different kinds of bread, so much the better, for they improve the flavor.

British Citizen Now
Owner of Cameroons
German Protectorate

LONDON.—A British citizen, Tress Hart, of London, has become the virtual owner of the Cameroons, the German protectorate.

Alarm was caused in Britain when the government decided to sell this property. It was believed that in open sale it would revert to German ownership.

But by the payment of the sum of 269,550 pounds (out of a total of 224,679 pounds realized by the sale) Hart has gained undisputed control over the land.

He declares that he will not sell any of his holdings to German nationals.

To Assist Needy.

NELSONVILLE.—Nelsonville charitable organizations are now engaged in a general canvass of the city and immediate vicinity to ascertain what must be done for the needy at Christmas time. It is believed that many cases will be found where aid is necessary because of the long suspension of coal mining in this district, the workers said.

Pollopas, the new glass substitute, will not splinter like glass and may be used for spectacles.

Many American birds will be exhibited at the poultry show in Cuba the latter part of February.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germs.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Dascome looked down at her bent head, at the shape of her neck, snow-white, and the curve of her lovely shoulders; he glimpsed her face, very grave, very eager to appear businesslike and untroubled. "There!" she said, purposefully whimsical. "I think I have never made a bargain so quickly. Who says money is not an accelerator!"

"Dascome looked at the bit of paper, not at her. "I—when will you want to see my things?"

"On Monday."

"Very well. And thank you, Mrs. Kalme. You have done me a kindness. It is some time since I have had a home."

But for something vaguely desolate in his expression, she might not have answered with such genuine feeling: "I hope you will be very happy here."

"I am undeserving of the wish—I have deprived you of your home—nevertheless, I am grateful. Shall I bring my daughter tomorrow afternoon? You will have investigated me by that time?"

"Yes, tomorrow afternoon." She smiled at him and he at her.

XII

After the door had closed on Dascome, Karesia went over to the couch and sat down. She took up her fan, but held it motionless, turning her head slowly, her eyes vague, looking at the objects in the room. She saw them and was conscious of an ache, but not actively so. She felt as one does who has done something irretrievable, and realizes that she has been urged to it by her heart and not her head; throughout the transaction she had felt rather than thought. Now she was thinking rather than feeling.

She looked at the bills lying on the table. "It's done," she said aloud. "You have taken the money. It's the last thing you intended doing, putting yourself out of your home. And it's all because of your everlasting loneliness. He tried to explain, but there is something behind it all, and it intrigued you. And he knew perfectly well that it was not the thousand dollars a month that was putting him into your house. And there is his daughter."

Karesia ceased her mutter of words, but her thoughts ran on: His daughter was no child, what would be her attitude to all this? A strange woman surrounded by her father's possessions and she housed with a stranger's household effects! A curious arrangement it would seem, even to the incurious. Had she, Karesia Kalme, learned nothing about women? Their instant guarding of their mankind from the free-lance woman? The greater her charm, the more bitter their antagonism. Even an angry girl would be capable of unearthing another woman's past; constructing a past, if necessary.

Karesia shrank. "You can return that money. Say that you have changed your mind."

Her answer was a lift of the head. "I have a perfect right to look for happiness—I have had little enough of it! I want him here. I like him. I think he's straight—I think he's strong—a man! I can fight, too, if I have to, and I'd like to see the woman, or man, who'll take from me anything I'm determined to have!"

She sprang up and going to the table took up the two bills. Bills and fan in hand, she turned out the lights. Then she went upstairs cautiously, a wary eye on Mary Bliss' door; she hoped the woman would not waylay her.

But all was silent up there; Mary Bliss' door was closed. Karesia felt that she ought to ask her whether she was comfortable, say that her own room was across the hall so she need not feel nervous. But she dreaded a frightened answer; she herself was so tensely keyed; suddenly, tonight, she had taken a vivid glimpse into the future; again she was challenging life.

Karesia opened her door softly, closed it, and went over to her dresser. She took her purse from a drawer and put the bills in it; she decided that she would put it under her pillow. Then, by chance, she saw her reflection in the long mirror, and paused aghast. Her hands flew to her fiery cheeks and over them she looked at her barbaric self.

"The Pilgrim fathers have mercy on your soul!" she whispered. "You look the embodiment of all the virtues not! The dignified possessor of a double house! As son of Boston and you met him like this!" Her hands dropped slowly and she stood staring, utterly blank. Then, suddenly, the corners of her mouth quivered and began to lift, a dancing light sifted between her lashes, and, whirling about, she dived for the bed and smothered paroxysms of laughter and speech in its covers:

"A respectable landlady—in checked—apron. A lamp—what! . . . Oh, mercy! . . . Talking wisely of — bathrooms — and — cupboards! . . . Karesia's secret little—entrance! . . . Oh—my!

. . . Oh! Oh!"

She gasped away her laughter finally, drew herself up and put back her hair. She brushed the tears of laughter out of her eyes, drew up her knees and sat with arms clasped about them. The sight of her magnificent fan almost brought on another paroxysm, but she throttled it.

"It's nothing to laugh at!" she said reproachfully. "You're utterly shameless!" And ruefully: "He doesn't know who you are—what on earth does he think you are? Wriggling around in that snake's skin. The amazing thing is that he didn't ask you! Not a quiver of an eyelash, not hint of amusement or curiosity! He didn't even ask you whether you were in moviedom. No sign at all—a straight, clear look into my eyes, perfect facial control. A gentleman that!"

She rose from the bed. "Tomorrow you put on a gingham, Kara ma—" She had caught her breath. She shook her shoulders impatiently. "Now what made me say that? The past—always the past!"

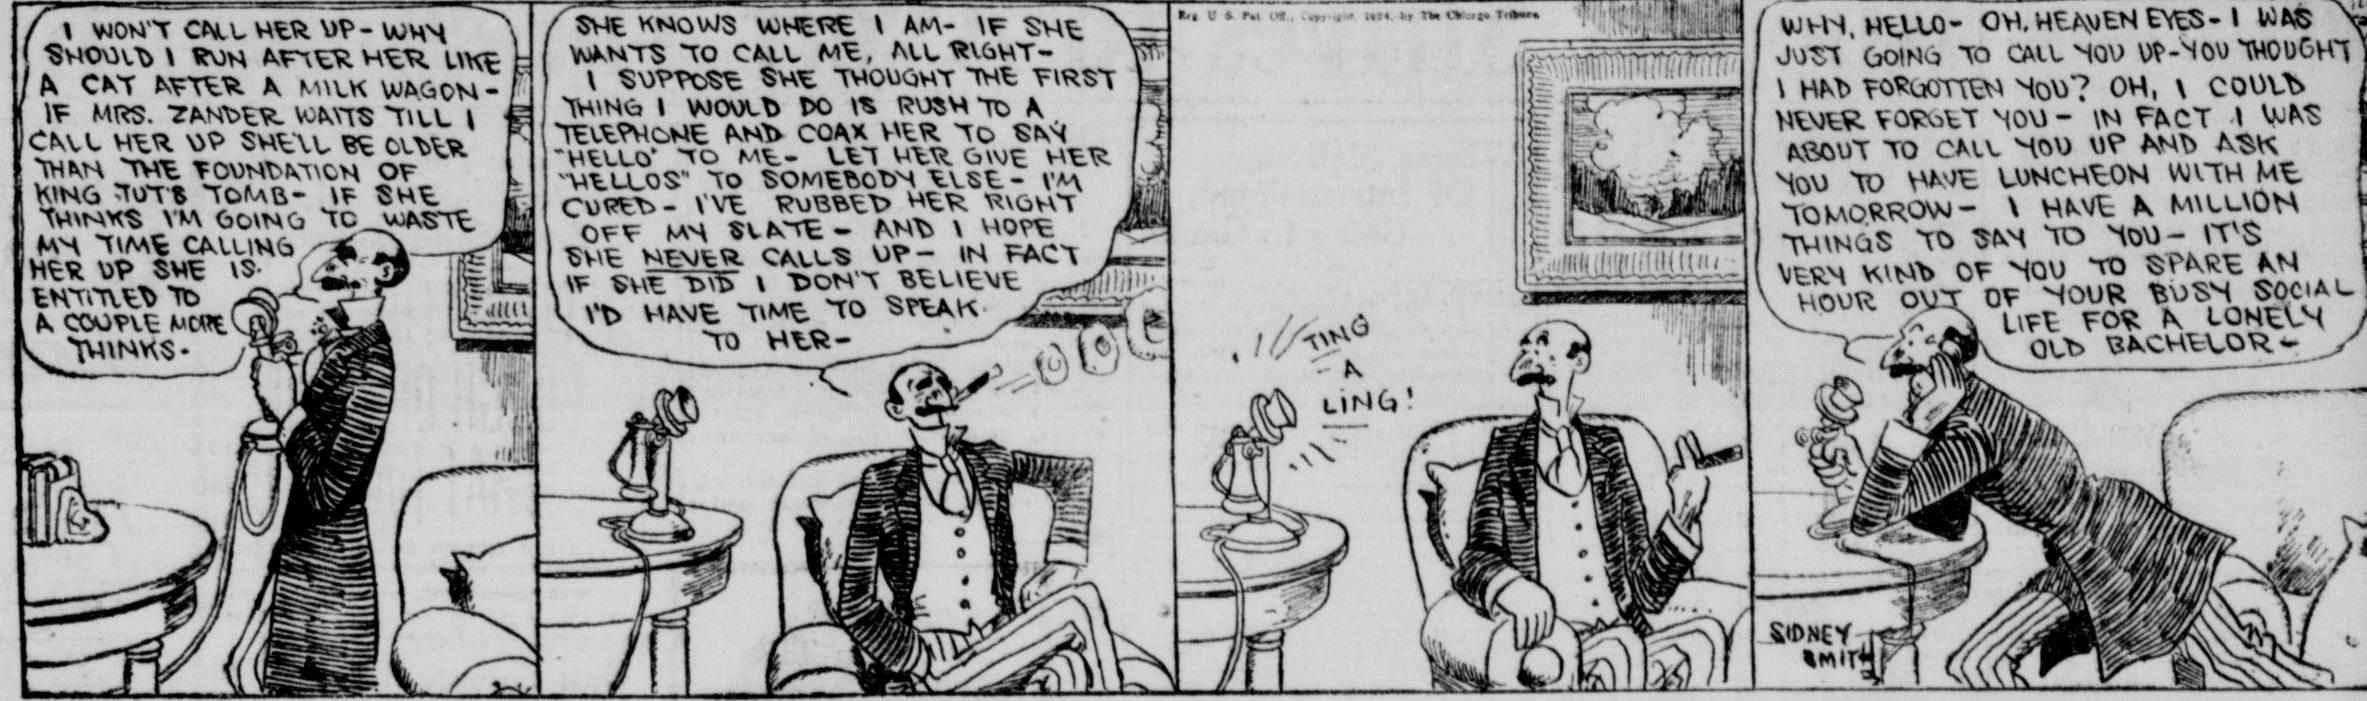

She took off her Russian dancer's garb soberly. After hours of lying awake she decided: "I shall tell him tomorrow that eight hundred dollars a month is all I will take."

XIII

The sun was looking full in her window when Karesia waked the next morning; she had overslept. Her first thought was of Mary Bliss. She slipped on a kimono and went out to the landing. The woman's door was closed and when Karesia knocked she received no answer.

LUTHERAN FIVE EASY WINNER

Down Chester Presbyterians, 39-5, in League Game.

In a basketball contest that was too one-sided to be interesting the Lutherans scored an easy victory over the Chester Presbyterians in a Sunday School league contest on the high school floor last night by the score of 39 to 5.

The Lutherans took a commanding lead in the first half, tallying 21 points to their opponents' two, the Chester lads failing to make a field goal in the half.

It was the same story in the second half, the Lutherans scoring the points at will that meant victory. The Chester lads scored their only field goal of the game in the last half, plots being the lad who turned the trick.

G. Woessner was the scoring ace of the game, with Anthony a close second. Every one of the Lutherans with the exception of Kibble figured in the scoring.

McDevitt and Plotts starred for the Chester Presbyterians.

In the preliminary game the First Methodist Episcopal Juniors won from the Lutheran Juniors by the score of 49 to 11.

Horwell, Small and H. Nease were the leading scorers for the winners while Brown and Woessner did most of the scoring for the Lutherans.

Lineups and summaries.

versity, taking the hard bumps of the opposition tacklers, trying to hold steady, but attracting no attention.

In bobs some nimble-footed fellow, who couldn't under any circumstances withstand the pounding they have to take and the leader hands him the opportunity for an easy kick to success.

The business world stands up and achieves, forgetting the stalwart linemen who held the line against the possibility of a break through while the nimble-footed chap was kicking.

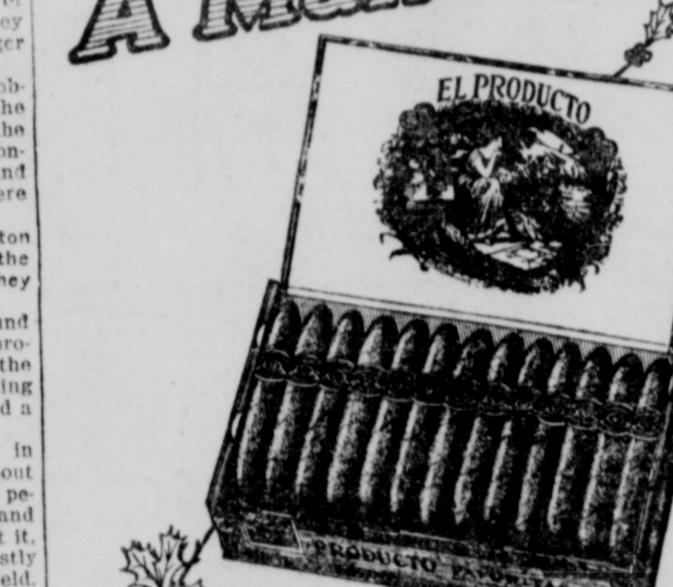

It's enough to make a man sore, isn't it.

And yet something must be said for Nimble Foot, though he had an easy change.

It must be said he made the most of opportunity.

BOLES' FIVE WILL TAKE ON TIREMEN

WOOSTER, Dec. 17.—The Wooster college basketball team will get a real test this week. Friday night Coach Boles will take his squad to Akron to play the Firestone five. He is expected to take a squad of twelve and all of the men are expected to get into the fray.

Last Friday evening Boles took his team to Mansfield and won from the Mansfield Daily News team, 46 to 22. The game was a nip and tuck affair for the first half which ended with Wooster leading, 15 to 14. In the second half the Collegians got started and scored almost at will. The scoring honors were about even. Love, caging six field goals, was Wooster's high point man. Boles used nine men in this game.

Four new eligible men have added greatly to Wooster's strength this season. These men are Dodez of Mt. Eaton, Love of Akron South and Gee of Youngstown who are forwards; Anderson of Cleveland Shaw was a center and McGlashan of Canton McKinley who is a guard.

In addition to these men Coach Boles has six letter men left from last season. These men are Pfeiffer, Hurst, Manly, Mitchell, Starn and Langell. Pfeiffer will not be available for the preseas games as he is still nursing an arm injured in football.

During the holidays the team will go to Jamestown, New York, and will play several games with strong teams in that section of the state. Coach Boles will send a squad of ten men on that trip.

And yet something must be said for Nimble Foot, though he had an easy change.

It must be said he made the most of opportunity.

Remember—HE MIGHT HAVE MISSED:

before the joint session got underway. Rumors were current that both the judge and Johnson would resign. But they were simply rumors.

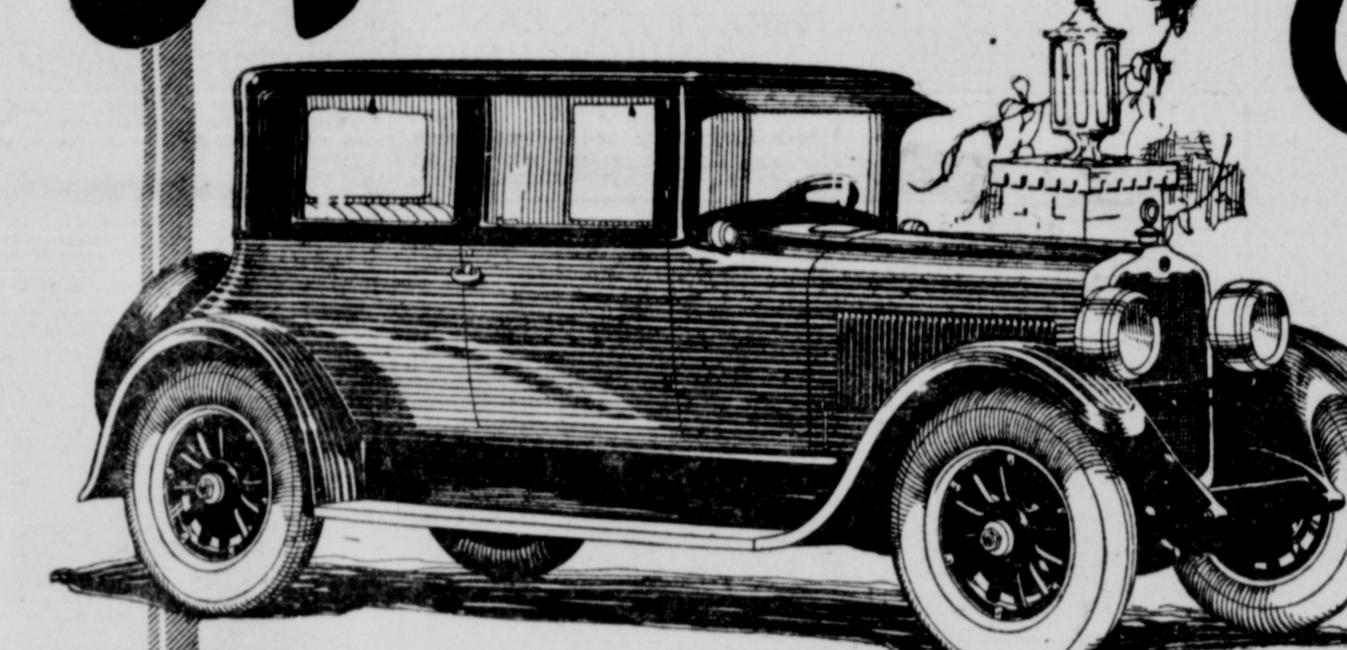

John McGraw of the Giants and C. A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, are antagonistic to Johnson and report has it that they will make the going rough for the American league head. However, Ruppert wants the junior organization to go ahead peacefully about its business and wants to put the kibosh on all harsh words. It is predicted that he will have his way.

"It all depends on how successful the peace committee is in adjusting affairs with the judge," one magnate said this morning. "Naturally the commissioner is sore about the harsh things Johnson is reported to have said about him, but he may be appeased when the peace committee assures him there will be no repetition of these utterances."

Magnates and managers spent the early hours before the meeting in discussing trades. So far none materialized.

Runyon Says

Ball Players Are Civic "Ads." They Make Many Towns Famous. What's the home of Tris Speaker? You know Answer, Hubbar, Tex. Football Has Outgrown Experts.

By DAMON RUNYON.

BIG league ball players should be dined and possibly wined in their home towns when they return for winter hibernation.

Their chambers of commerce, their rotary clubs, and their other organizations devoted to municipal uplift, should properly recognize these young gentlemen as objects of great civic value.

Many small towns that would otherwise linger in more or less obscurity are frequently made famous throughout the land through the baseball prowess of their boys who go forth to the big leagues every Summer.

The writer thinks that the professional ball-player has an advertising value to a community that is rather generally overlooked. And some communities spend much time and money devising means of calling the attention of the world to themselves.

Have you ever thought of it from that angle?

Hundreds of thousands of persons who wouldn't have known of the existence of the town, know of Hubbard, Texas, because it is the home of the great Tris Speaker.

It is a name as familiar in New York, Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, St. Louis, and the other big cities as the name of Coffeyville, Kansas. And everybody knows that Coffeyville is the home of Walter Johnson. Also Johnson made famous the name of Weiser, Idaho, because he started his baseball career there.

At first they called him "The Weiser Wonder." After that he became the "Coffeyville Cyclone." Another small town in Kansas—Circleville—is noted as the home of the Barnes boys, Jesse and Virgil.

The name of Factoryville, Pa., is remembered in the big towns of the country. It produced Christy Mathewson, for years the baseball idol of the biggest city in the land.

Many earnest gentlemen have been spending much time the past few weeks producing their ideas of an "All American" football eleven supposed to represent the best football playing talent in the country.

They might just as well undertake to select eleven "All American" bricklayers, or carpenters. It would be quite as representative.

Football has grown beyond the experts. It is played throughout the country. Unlike baseball, the best talent is not centered in two compact leagues where it can be neatly observed, studied, compared. There are no definite figures, such as batting and fielding averages, by which a man's ability can be gauged.

You find in small, obscure college football players who are better than any you see on the teams of the large colleges. You find in some sections of the country a game improved far beyond other sections.

Years ago an expert could sit down and pick eleven men from Yale, Harvard and Princeton teams and say, "Here are the best players in the country."

Nobody disputed the assertion. Nobody felt they dared dispute the assertion. There weren't enough other football players in the country on which to base a dispute.

And probably the expert was right in those days. Football had been developed at Yale, Harvard and Princeton beyond any other colleges or sections. They had a greater stock of player material to draw from; they had more money; they had stronger encouragement.

Even allowing a shade for the snobishness of those who used to do the All-American picking in ignoring the existence of other colleges, it is conceivable that the Yale, Harvard and Princeton players of years ago were the best.

But Yale, Harvard and Princeton now merely struggle along with the procession in football. Sometimes they find it difficult to keep up.

Other colleges grow in size, found football attractive. The game progressed, became interesting to the general public, where in the beginning it was a good deal of a mystery and a bore to the casual observer.

Where once the average man in the street didn't know anything about football, regarded it as a game peculiar to high-brow colleges, and didn't want to know anything about it, nearly every American is earnestly seeking a ticket to the nearest field.

Football once belonged essentially to the classes in this country. Now it's in the hands of the masses. That always makes a big difference in sports—or anything else.

Football players, more than any other athletes, are subject to violent reversals of form. They are even worse in that respect than race horses.

In one game a man may be a tremendous player. In his next game he may be a total failure. It is, of course, the opposition—the resistance, the style of play—he encounters. He is like the fighter who makes a great showing against a mediocre opponent and is what they call, in pugilistic parlance, "a bum" against a good man.

When you find a football player who sustains his ability against all opposition across a couple of seasons you have a truly great player, they are very rare.

Stories of football players have had one great day in their entire gridiron careers. Some of them are still remembered by the public for that one great day.

Football more than any other sport places the high premium of fame on the spectacular—or a single flashy incident such as the dropkick that wins a game. The man who accomplishes the feat becomes celebrated, though he may do nothing else the balance of his career.

Then some other chap will plug along obscurely in the line for three years rendering stalwart service yet never be noticed.

Well, that's life in general, isn't it?

Take some business concern for instance.

LUTHERAN FIVE EASY WINNER

Down Chester Presbyterians, 39-5, in League Game.

In a basketball contest that was too one-sided to be interesting the Lutherans scored an easy victory over the Chester Presbyterians in a Sunday School league contest on the high school floor last night by the score of 39 to 5.

The Lutherans took a commanding lead in the first half, tallying 21 points to their opponents' two, the Chester lads failing to make a field goal in the half.

It was the same story in the second half, the Lutherans scoring the points at will that meant victory. The Chester lads scored their only field goal of the game in the last half, Plotts being the lad who turned the trick.

G. Woessner was the scoring ace of the game, with Anthony a close second. Every one of the Lutherans with the exception of Kibble figured in the scoring.

McDevitt and Plotts starred for the Chester Presbyterians.

In the preliminary game the First Methodist Episcopal Juniors won from the Lutheran Juniors by the score of 49 to 11.

Horwell, Small and H. Nease were the leading scorers for the winners while Brown and Woessner did most of the scoring for the Lutherans.

versity, taking the hard bumps of the opposition tacklers, trying to hold steady, but attracting no attention.

In bobs some nimble-footed fellow, who couldn't under any circumstances withstand the pounding they have to take and the leader hands him the opportunity for an easy kick to success.

The business world stands up and cheers, forgetting the stalwart linemen who held the line against the possibility of a break through while the nimble-footed chap was kicking.

It's enough to make a man sore, isn't it.

And yet something must be said for Nimble Foot, though he had an easy change.

It must be said he made the most of opportunity.

MOUNTAINEERS FACE BIG JOB

Play Three Games One Week--Salem, Waynesburg, Allegheny.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 17.—Mountaineer floor athletes will be kept busy during the first week of the approaching floor campaign because after meeting Salem college in the opening game here on Monday, January 5, they will play Waynesburg college on Wednesday, January 7, and Allegheny college on Saturday, January 10.

Three engagements the first week, even though all of them are to be played on the home floor, is a very difficult assignment for the quint Coach Francis H. Stadsvold has started to develop at the "Ark." The candidates now at work have been told of the early assignment and are making the most of their time.

Waynesburg is being met on the court for the first time in several years. Basketball men at the college just over the state line in Pennsylvania have already started work, according to reports reaching here, and Waynesburg fans are looking for a continuation of sport success as started by the strong Yellow Jacket eleven during the past football season. Aside from West Virginia the Waynesburg team was the only outfit to down West Virginia Wesleyan college on the gridiron.

Allegheny has also started floor work and there are many veterans on the Meadville, Pa., college squad. Last year the Mountaineers defeated Allegheny 49-28 here and a week later nosed out a 31-21 victory at Meadville.

The skirmishes with Salem,

AT NEW YORK—Terry Estridge knocked out Rocky Smith of Battle Creek, Mich., in first round. Dave Weber, New York, defeated Joe Werner, Brooklyn, six rounds. Joseph Scalfaro knocked out Al Lombardi, two rounds. Jos Canamore defeated Mike Reilly, three rounds. Frankie Fasano beat Irish Johnny Curtin, 12 rounds.

AT JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—Cuddy De Marco, of Charleroi, defeated Pedro Camo, Philippine lightweight, 19 rounds.

AT ALBANY, N. Y.—Freddy Maxwell, Brooklyn, was awarded judge's decision over Andy Tucker, New York, 10 rounds; Jerry Williams, Albany, knocked out Chubby Smith, Troy, three rounds; Sammy Blendfield, Brooklyn, awarded judge's decision over Sammy Marion, New York, 10 rounds.

AT WILKES-BARRE, PA.—Joe Colletti, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., bested Eddie Covington, colored midget, of Philadelphia, in eight rounds.

AT DETROIT—Jack Duffy, Toledo, beat Eddie Russell, Windsor, Ont. Barney Griffin, Milwaukee, outpointed Joe Grill, of New York. Tommy Stanton, Scranton, knocked out Jack Halko, Detroit.

AT DENVER—Harry Galfund, Brooklyn, welterweight, defeated Willie Hope, Denver, 3 rounds. Irvin Bige, Omaha, decisioned Marty (Kid) Mack, Pueblo, Colo., three rounds.

AT BUTTE, Mont.—Dixie Lahood, Butte, intermountain bantamweight champion, knocked out Phil O'Dowd, Columbus, Ohio, in the sixth round of a scheduled 12 round bout. Young Lundy, Salt Lake City, knocked out Bob Palmer, Billings, Mont., in second round of a scheduled eight round fight.

AT BUFFALO—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, defeated Jack Schoendorf, Milwaukee, two rounds; Jack Bernstein, Yonkers, defeated Tony Russo, Carnegie, six rounds; Willie Cunningham, Buffalo, defeated Phil Verdi, Rochester, six rounds; Art Wender, Buffalo, defeated Johnny Sacco, Buffalo, six rounds; Joe Hall, Buffalo, defeated Wally Hopwood, Toronto, four rounds.

Waynesburg and Allegheny during the first six days of the 1925 campaign will put the new Mountaineer quilt to a severe and thorough test. Veteran tossers will probably be called upon to bear the brunt of the burden, but the men who are to replace Hill at forward and Bowers at guard will play no small part in the battles. Coach Stadsvold stated that he hoped to have the Mountaineer team working with some degree of smoothness for the opening games.

PIRATES RELEASE CATCHER SCHMIDT

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17.—Because both Earl Smith and Johnny Gooch, young catchers of the Pirates, are ready for duty behind the bat, and because of the Pittsburgh club's policy of reconstruction, Walter Schmidt, veteran Buccaneer receiver, has been unconditionally released, according to Manager McKechnie.

Schmidt had been a member of the Pittsburgh club for nine seasons. As a result of his departure, the burden of the work will fall on Smith and Gooch, with Cliff Knox in reserve. Spencer, recruit from Birmingham, is the fourth member of the catching corps, and counting Jack Onslow and another youngster who'll be added later, there'll be six in the backstop crew.

Knox, according to McKechnie, has the markings of a fine maskman, apparently. The Pirate skipper plans to farm Knox out to some good club, if convenient, in order to keep him busy.

So Fast He Leaves Them Dazed!

Fast? Say, girls, they just have time to say: "Here he comes!—There he goes!"

When the dust clears, they find themselves offering congratulations. That's how fast friend Deny is in this super-speed special. If your beau is slow take him to see this picture. It's a liberal education in lightnin' lovin'.

As for Reggie, we'll say he's the speedometer's binoculars.
